

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at <http://books.google.com/>

ALMA MATER

— I said, let me leave the voices of little men, and consider a great thing.

Who is this that sits serene in the valleys, with her forehead among the tawny hills? She is golden in the morning, and silver under the moon. She is not a king's daughter; there is no pride in her.

Lo, it is she whose name we have taken; she who was conceived of a great sorrow, in the autumn of a woman's years; she by whom we are children of those whose child was dead, by whom we are the heirs of a boy who was never a father.

She is not mighty, neither magnificent: she does not call to us from tall steeples; she wears no crown of towers. She sits among the little hills, with the sunshine on her knees; her garment is brown and warm, and her sleeves are edged with green. Red sunsets are the mantle that clothes her shoulders.

We come to her feeble and soft, and lean against her knees. Her hands are clasped about our hands; she feeds our hunger. Her subtle breath is upon us, and we are straightway changed.

Who shall say how far her words have gone, and who shall say how high her sons have mounted? Men of all nations know them, and travelers on wide waters. Their feet have walked in waste places and in king's palaces.

What do we bring to her who gave us part of our life? What do we render for her service? We have given her nothing, after the fashion of sons and daughters.

Only when we creep back to her desolate and forlorn, we catch at her garment: we hide our faces in her sleeves, saying "Love us! Restore us!" Only that we give to her, after the manner of corner of the heart and the cry of the broken.

Will utter my prayer, that all men may hear me:

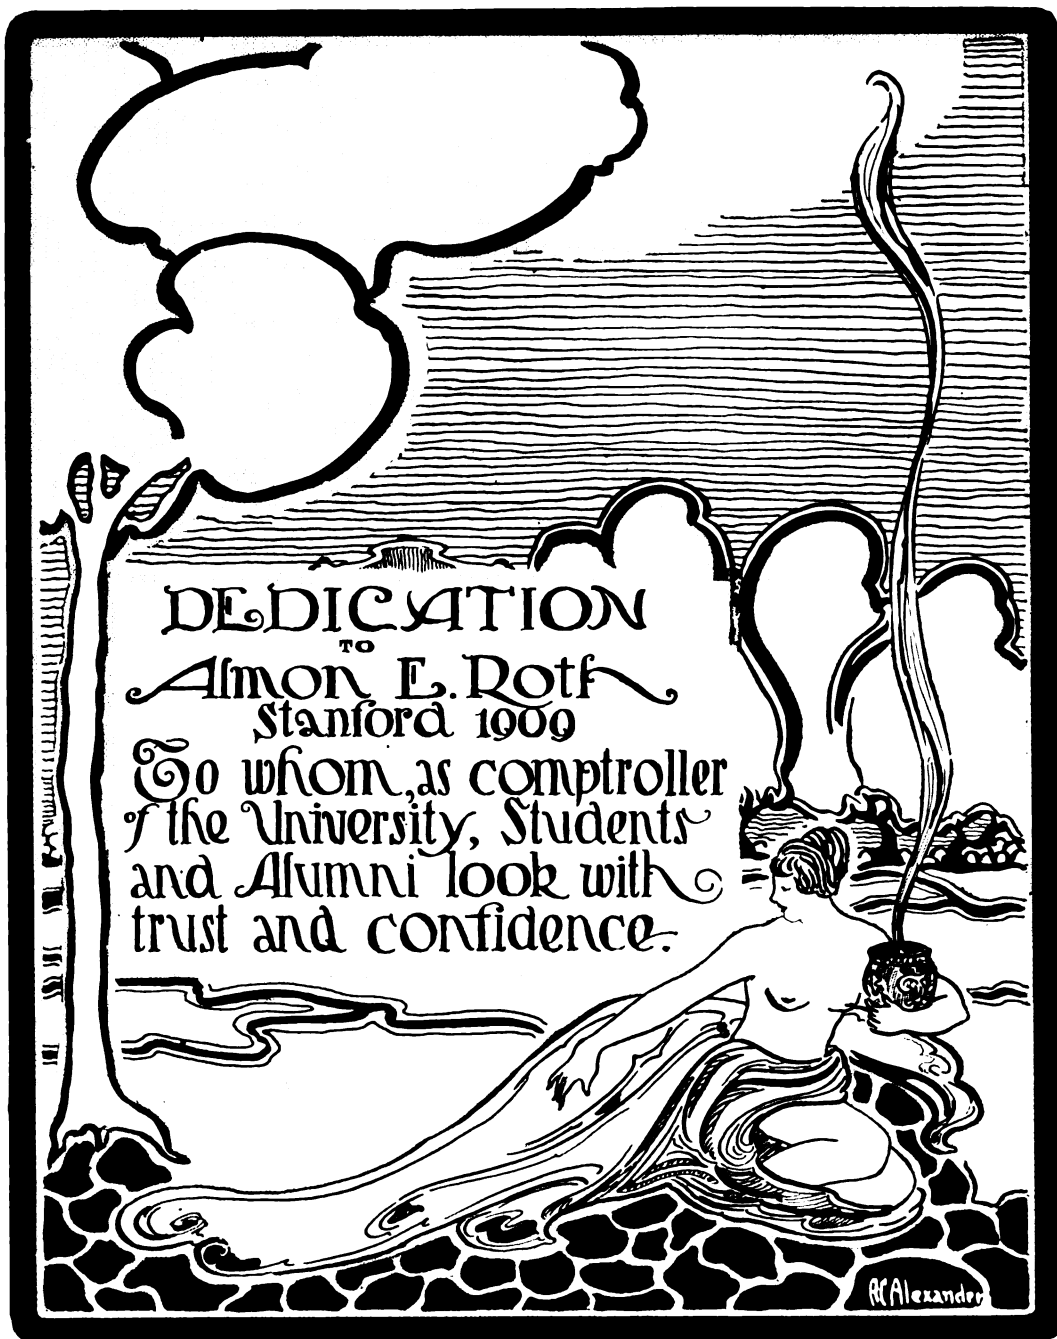

fts, make us deserving of her charity.

I preserver, make us worthy to be called her children.

Leland Stanford

As Dr. Jordan Knew Him

THE biography of the founder of the university now bearing his name was one of trials and tribulations intermixed with success. Active in law, politics, business, and always a figure of great strength in whatever community he lived, Leland Stanford has by his actions and strong personality left an unforgettable impression on all with whom he came in contact.

Born in Watervliet, New York, on March 9, 1824, the future Governor of California acquired his early education at Cazenovia Academy. He determined upon law as a career, and later resolved to seek his fortune in the West. Following his marriage with Jane Lathrop of Albany in 1850, he therefore moved to Wisconsin and later to California, where he established himself in a general merchandise store at Michigan Bluff in El Dorado County. From there he moved to Sacramento, where he resumed his law practice, and became prominent in local Republican politics. In 1862 he was elected Governor of the State and aided materially in keeping California firmly attached to the Union. After a strenuous business career he moved to Palo Alto, remaining there until his death, June 21, 1893.

To quote Dr. Jordan: "In person he was of massive build and rather slow spoken, but extremely direct and earnest, with a considerable fund of dry humor and a rare smile which fairly illuminated his otherwise impassive face. Broad-minded and long-headed, he was a keen observer of human nature, though withal sympathetic and benevolent; I have never heard him speak in bitter terms of any opponent. In the words of his secretary, Herbert C. Nash, 'He was active when other men were idle; he was generous when other men were grasping; he was lofty when other men were base.'"

The New Stanford Spirit

HAS the war given a new impetus to the traditional spirit of Stanford? With the first day of the University, the open country, the young enthusiastic faculty, the good fellowship, the eager student body full of initiative and verve, all combined to develop at once an idealism and a sense of common service that became known as Stanford Spirit.

We have just seen in the Great War some of the results of the forces inherent in Stanford life. In the world services of Herbert Hoover there is a combination of brain and heart and a sense of loyalty to human-kind that had much of its inspiration here on our own soil. The greatest motive in Hoover's life is his love of fair play and his belief in an equality of opportunity for every man, woman and child. In this we find him in full harmony with the Stanford Spirit.

No greater inspiration could come to one than came to me when, as President of the University, hundreds of students appealed to me personally to point the way of greatest service to them when the call to war finally came. There was no shirking, no desire to escape realities, but a driving impulse to do their best at any risk for their country and for humanity.

And now many of those students and the members of the Faculty, who were able to get into war service, are back again in the old surroundings, touched with a new fire, softened in spirit, and hardened in fiber by the tempering that goes with strain, responsibility, and the maintenance of morale under all circumstances. Surely we will get from them and their association with the strong fine stream of young blood that crowds our campus a new and more powerful era of the Stanford Spirit.

RAY LYMAN WILBUR.

Educational Evolution

WE HAVE erected in the United States a vast and complex democracy, the success of which is founded on the highest state of education.

We have heard much of illiteracy and Americanization. We have heard much of the necessity of suppressing child labor. But the primary foundation upon which Americanization is to be accomplished; by which illiteracy is to be overcome; by which children are to be benefited by taking them from the factories and the mines, rests primarily upon their receiving education at the hands of the country.

When we come to the higher ranges of education, where the specialists and leaders of this country must be trained, we find the same difficulties confronting these institutions. If we look back over the history of universities, not only of the United States but of Europe, we find one outstanding political fact. It has been the continuity of these institutions in joining experience and thought of the past with the ideas of the day that has given stability and impulse to civilization. Since the foundation of the oldest European university of Cracow the character of the government of Poland has changed a dozen times. This institution has never ceased to canvass free thought, free speech—to sow the seed from which springs human liberty. When all other institutions have apparently crumbled, these educational institutions have gone on pouring out men of character and ideas from whom new governments, the evolution of freedom and better government, have arisen. There is something great and precious in the continuity of these institutions. If we are to aspire to a growing civilization we cannot allow our universities to fall below our national ideals.

Stanford Honors Service Men

In recognition of the service rendered by Stanford participants in the war who left their academic studies to enter the various branches of the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps, the University awarded a certificate of honor as a token of the gratitude of the University for the fitting manner in which they upheld the Stanford tradition of service to their University and of loyalty to their country.

Every alumnus and student of Stanford from the class of Nineteen Hundred and Fourteen forward who had interrupted their scholastic work for the defense of their country received the appreciation of the University Administration. Service overseas in the actual battle front was not a requisite for the token, but rather it included all those who had been compelled to forego the pursuit of their higher education. The total number of recipients of the Certificates of Honor included approximately one thousand students, of which number more than twenty were members of the Freshman Class of last year who were at Officers' Training Camps at the conclusion of the war.

THE 1919 Senior Week was one of rejoicing and reunion quite different from that of the year before, over which the clouds of war hung low. Alumni, ex-service men, and Seniors gathered under the familiar arches of the Quad. Men who had seen many months on the battle fronts of Europe brought again into being the Stanford Senior Week of old.

The week's entertainment began with the Senior Farce, "Nothing But the Truth," given by the class on the night of June 12, at which all were prone to forget their cares in the enjoyment of the clever comedy.

One hundred and eighty-four Seniors and fifty-three graduate students who were to receive advanced degrees participated in the Class Day ceremonies on the 13th of June. The record of the undergraduate work of the class of '19 was completed according to custom in the laying of the bronze plate in front of the Memorial Church. Following this ceremony the Seniors made their pilgrimage to the Mausoleum in reverence to the founders of their Alma Mater.

After this luncheon representatives of the classes of '93 and '94 laid the plates of their respective classes, thus making complete the chain of plates from the pioneer class of '94 to the youngest, '19. In the evening the English Club presented their pageant "Service," which portrayed the life of Stanford University from the founding, up to the present day.

(On June 14 over 500 Alumni were honored by the Seniors at the Senior-

On Baccalaureate Sunday Bishop Matt S. Hughes delivered the sermon to the Senior Class.

The activities of Senior Week closed on Monday with the Commencement exercises held in the Memorial Church. Professor Paul Shorey of Chicago University delivered the Commencement address. The future of America in its relations to the other nations and the extent to which the college graduate could mold and shape its course was the theme of his talk. Following it the degrees were conferred by the President of the University.

Thus the members of the 1919 class, looking forward not to the problems of war, but to the equally serious problems of peace, brought their college days to a close. The 1919 Senior Week in recording and reviewing the part that Stanford men and women played in the world struggle will truly stand out as a unique and proud occasion in the war record which our University will always claim as its own.

PRESIDENT WILBUR ADDRESSING ALUMNI ASSOCIATION JUNE 14, 1919

The Summer Quarter

THE 1919 summer quarter at Stanford registered 470 students, not including those attending the medical school at San Francisco or the Hopkins Marine Station. This was the largest summer attendance at the University since the change to the four quarter system. Of the number 155 were graduates.

A great deal of interest was shown in the Tuesday evening lectures held weekly during the summer. Among the more important addresses given in the Little Theater were: Christianity and the Problems of the Orient, delivered by Professor Payson J. Treat. Professor Edwin Greenlaw, a visiting professor of English from the University of North Carolina, gave an address entitled: Some National Ideals in English Literature. Professor Coester of the University of New York recounted his observations in Cuba, Argentina, and Brazil during the Great War. Burgess Johnson, formerly the editor of Judge magazine, gave an entertaining talk on the American Newspaper, past and present. The series closed with an address given by Dr. Penrose, the president of Whitman College, Washington, entitled: The Limits of Democracy.

Another feature of the summer was the holding of several dances and jolly-ups at the Delta Tau Delta and Delta Upsilon Houses.

The Poster Fight

DEFYING both water and cold weather, the Sophomores were able in the annual poster fight held on the night of October 2, to cool down the turbulent spirits of the incoming Freshman Class by numerous duckings at the water hydrants along the Row. Though outnumbered, the Sophomores had the initial advantage of having been through several fights during the previous year and were better organized than the Freshmen.

On the evening before the fight both classes withdrew to opposite points of the campus. The Sophomores made their camp in the hills back of Lake Lagunita, while the Babes took up their quarters near the Phi Gamma Delta House. Foraging and reconnoitering parties were sent out by both camps for the purpose of capturing stray enemies that entertainment might be furnished the revelers during their long wait through the night.

Despite roaring fires the night was cold and the morale of both factions had sunk to the zero hour before the Sophomores were permitted by the varsity "S" men in charge to march down upon the waiting

SELF EXPLANATORY

THE GATHERING OF THE CLAN—FROSH FIGHTERS WARMING UP IN THE FOOTHILLS

Freshmen. At three-thirty A. M. the Sophomores marched up the Row to meet the enemy on the Theta lawn.

The impact at the initial meeting of the two forces was terrific and for a few minutes all that could be discerned was a struggling mass. Soon, however, numerous excursions to the nearby hydrants were made, each trip meaning the elimination of a Freshman or Sophomore from the battle. The '23 men fought fiercely but were unable to break up the superior organization of the Sophomores. Meanwhile the group placing the posters was entirely successful against their opponents. At the end of the half-hour allotted for the scrap few Freshmen remained who had not felt water, and but few posters had been removed by the Babes.

The Sophomores were declared the victors by the committee in charge.

A HARD ONE TO HANDLE

The Freshman---Sophomore Rush

DETERMINED to avenge their crushing defeat in the poster fight of the evening before, the class of 1923 gave the Sophomores a hard battle in the annual rush held on the Football Field Wednesday afternoon, November 4. The Sophomores finally proved their superiority in spite of the herculean efforts of the younger men.

The rush began with a brief and furious struggle in the center of the field in which wearing apparel suffered severe damage, and faces were generously battered. It was only a short time until the Sophomores began dragging into their "bull-pen" large numbers of Freshmen whose humiliation was increased by the derisive jeers of the crowds on the bleachers.

The end of the half-hour struggle found the Sophomore morgue crowded with the vanquished wearers of the dink whose faces and clothes were liberally splashed with red paint.

The block "S" supervisors were forced to exert their authority over the Babes when an unpremeditated serpentine was staged by the Freshmen shortly after the Sophomores had been declared victorious. It was only after several of the vanquished veterans had received severe applications of water at the hands of the Sophomores that they acknowledged their defeat and heralded "twenty-two" a superior numeral.

Rough's Day

Rough's Day, one of Stanford's oldest traditions, came back to the campus on November 20. This memorable custom was resurrected by the Tradition's Committee appointed by the Student Body president to revive old observances. Old clothing was the order of the day. White collars and shaves were considered serious enough to warrant the water cure. Several well-known individuals suffered a liberal treatment with stove blackening as punishment for opposing the popular sentiment against white shirts.

HADLEY CONCLUDES ROUGH
MARRIAGE CEREMONY

The day was a continuous round of clownish stunts. Numerous parades, demonstrating the growing enthusiasm over the Stanford-California game, took place in the vicinity of engineering corner.

Skull and Snakes

Fifteen neophytes were duly initiated into Skull and Snakes Honor Society on February 1 of this year following a midnight paddle parade down the Row, which was witnessed by practically the entire student population on the campus. Starting from the Phi Psi house and ending in the secret lodge room of Skull and Snakes, the initiates marched in close lockstep formation flanked by their paddle swinging brethren to the place where the solemn rites of the secret ceremony were performed. Those elected to the society were: C. A. Wilcox, '18, M. M. Kirksey, '18, D. N. Levy, '18, M. D. Flowers, '19, F. L. Bonney, '19, W. M. Stamp, '20, W. B. Wells, '20, F. P. Campbell, '20, A. P. Geology and Mining Society

Geology and Mining Honor Society elected twelve G. & M. majors to the privilege of wearing the hammer and rock pin, at their winter quarterly election of members held on April 28. They were:

John A. Potter, '18, M. S. Donaldson, '18, P. Crocker, '18, H. A. Chandler, '19, H. A. Brown, '19, H. M. Oliver, '19, R. G. Rogers, '20, Robert Willis, '20, T. J. Hamlyn, '21, T. F. Stipp, '21, R. D. Copley, '21, and Richard W. Sherman, '21.

PRESS CLUB

Five students were on December 2 initiated into Press Club, Stanford honorary society for campus writers and journalists. As the public ceremony and show planned were stopped by university regulation against such demonstrations, the neophytes contented themselves with the distribution of the usual amount of propaganda.

R. A. Donaldson, '17; W. J. Gores, '17; L. O. Weaver, '19; G. W. Hall, '19, and R. W. Kenny, '21, were elected to membership in the club. On March 10, J. A. Quinby, '18; F. L. McElroy, '21; D. B. Van Every, '19; F. S. Reeder, '23; W. G. Hall, '19, were given the secret work of the club.

(By the Staff Member)

My dear— Club here.

Five new members have been taken in by the Press Club of Stanford University. It is announced. The neophytes are William J. Morris, '20, an Editor Club member who lives in the Art Department, and happily President of the Council, Robert A. Schmalzer, '18, in charge of the new Cordell variety which which began to do better than in the past, a Journalism major who recently prepared for the Bar, but failed to get by the legal examination of the United Art, Judge Leslie Weaver, '22, a science editor of the Daily Palo Alto, and defendant in error, who is a Major, and reporters from the Press Dept. of the Press Building. R. M. Kenah, '18, of the Daily Palo Alto, who registers Daily except Saturday and Sunday, and is a very prominent member of English Club, according to Miss Bertha Berry, of swimming pool aviation fame. And George W. Bell, a prominent Alpha Delta Phi brother, the artist on the Chaparral, the comic magazine of the University of California.

The Press Club was founded by Will Irwin, who wrote under the name of Carolyn Ager. In 1905, and ranks among its members many who otherwise would have been among the nation's most famous journalists. It has been found in the same place ever since.

The Neophytes will give a show at the Quad on Thursday, Dec. 2, 1921. The principle characters, Mr. Raughter Weinstock, editor of the Campus Chatter (in a white collar), and Mr. Bruce M. Damsit, President of Campus Organizations will be among those acting. It is an unending wonder Mr. Joe Elmer McElroy, '19, of the Peninsula R. S. Wilson's, and the Editing Club and Sardine of Men, will play the role of the villain. A critical review of the show leads the reviewer to believe that the acting will not be as good as it might have been, and the slapping not as rough as it would have been otherwise.

The show will be coached by Mr. Elmer Pettit, editor of the Daily Palo Alto Times, who knows all about coaching, (even the Coach Evans does the official crabbing to the S. F. papers).

PRESS CLUB DODGER

Sigma Delta Chi

Sigma Delta Chi, the national honorary journalistic fraternity, initiated eight into membership on November 12.

The number included four men prominent in literary circles before being called to war: W. J. Losh, '17; C. R. Randau, '19; N. H. Petree, '19, and W. W. Wellman, '20; and J. A. Quinby, '18; D. W. Evans, '20; W. F. Leiser, '21, and J. E. Thrash, '21.

Phi Alpha Delta

Phi Alpha Delta, honorary legal fraternity, elected four law majors to the society during the autumn quarter: Bruce McDaniel, '20; Frank Evarts, special student; R. B. Carter, '20, and D. W. Evans, '20.

The policy of the organization includes no public initiation or ceremony of any kind. However, the neophytes were given the solemn obligation at a joint initiation held in San Francisco in the middle of the winter quarter by the Hastings, University of California and Stanford chapters.

In February Pan-Hellenic relations with Phi Delta Phi were severed.

Phi Delta Phi

MAKING a mute appeal against the ban placed on public initiations, eighteen neophytes of Phi Delta Phi honorary law fraternity, on December 3 buried for all time public initiations with a solemn ceremony on the postoffice steps.

The society had been planning a public demonstration, entitled: "Life at Little Leland University in 1923," but the members had to content themselves with this silent protest. The formal initiation was held in the evening. Those elected to the society were: E. A. Wells, '14; E. H. Henderson, '15; W. A. Boekel, '17; J. S. Wallace, '17; F. F. Chase, '18; F. L. Bonney, '18; J. T. Reynolds, '18; B. C. Wohlford, '18; E. F. Mitchell, '19; R. B. Jarvis, '20; L. L. Pickering, '20; W. H. Sheldon, '20; W. M. Stamp, '20; M. A. Kline, '21; F. L. McElroy, '21; W. A. Ormsby, '21; J. E. C. Simpson, '21, and H. L. Wrenn, '21. At a joint initiation held by the Jones, Pomeroy and Miller Inns at the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in San Francisco, February 20, P. H. Richards, '18; F. P. Campbell, '21; James Petrini, '21; F. S. Turner, '21, and C. R. Wayland, '21, were given the secret work of the fraternity.

Encina---Pajamerino

Encina's traditional pajama parade was larger this year than ever before. On the night of October 9, more than three hundred hall men attired in their night negligee journeyed forth on their customary tour of the Row.

Led by C. E. Richter, the president of the hall, the men made their way to the library where this newest of the University buildings was initiated into another of the cherished traditions of Stanford. The new arcades of the building reverberated with the noise made by the revelers. Serpentineing their way through the arcades of the Quad the band marched past the postoffice to Roble Hall, where the members of the "five hundred" were given an opportunity to see the midnight marauders by the light of many railroad torches.

From there the parade proceeded to the Row, where all the sorority and fraternity house porches were visited by the group. Cheers were given for all the athletic leaders at their respective houses under the direction of Cheer Leader W. T. Martin. On their return trip to the hall the paraders proceeded down Salvatierra, stopping at the fraternity houses on the way for refreshments.

Elections

The autumn elections had as a principal object the formation of the new Student Council for discipline. As the candidates were practically all on white ballot a comparatively light vote was cast.

W. J. Gores, '17; C. S. Kegley, '18; E. R. Caughey, '18; C. E. Righter, '19, and W. K. Hood, '20, were elected to the new body.

At the same time C. S. Davis, '20, and Harvey Newlands, '21, were named to fill the senior and junior vacancies on the Executive Committee of the Associated Students.

The February elections were more hotly contested, probably because of the great interest in the nominees for class offices.

C. W. Doe was made senior president by an unprecedented landslide vote. Miss Dorothy Driscoll was chosen vice-president on a white ballot.

On April 12 Doe resigned as president of the Senior Class, and John Sturgeon was elected to fill the vacancy.

In the race for the 1921 presidency, J. E. C. Simpson won by a two-vote margin. F. S. Herrington was victor over two candidates for the treasurer's office, while Beatrice Caughey won the vice-presidency without opposition.

On April 14 Edwin Simpson resigned as president of the Junior Class. Melvin E. Doyle was elected to succeed him.

F. L. Adams, '21, and T. E. Green, '22, were named as Junior and Sophomore representatives to the Executive Committee.

The elections for under-class officers was conspicuous for the lack of nominees.

By subsequent class meeting ballots, John T. Sibley was chosen head of the 1922 organization.

Melba Berry was elected vice-president, and Ford Tussing secretary.

Kenneth LeMarinel was made Freshman president.

ELECTION INTEREST WAXES BETWEEN CLASSES

The Spring Carnival

THE second annual Spring Carnival, which was held on the evening of April 23, was the first recurrence of a custom which was begun last May by a group of athletic enthusiasts who sought a new and original way to secure sufficient funds to finance the crew. The festivity then took the form of various concessions and stunts along the banks of Lagunita, and the innovation proved so successful that it has been given a place among the well-established Stanford traditions and has become an annual custom.

The purpose of this year's Carnival was to raise funds for the Associated Student Body and primarily for forms of athletics in need of additional finances. It was found that the ordinary sources of revenue did not offer an amount sufficient to promote athletics efficiently, so the object of the Carnival was to obtain funds large enough to insure the complete success of all forms of sports.

The Carnival Committee, of which E. R. Martin, '18, was chairman, sought to make this year's celebration more elaborate than before and put forth every effort to secure the co-operation of each organization and individual on the campus.

This year's Carnival was held in Encina Gymnasium and the surrounding yard, and from the coronation of the king and queen, which opened the evening's festivities, until the end of the dancing which followed the round of concessions, King Hilarity and Queen Merriment ruled supreme.

The concessions were not only more numerous than before, but showed more originality and attention to details. The cup for the best contribution to the program of entertainment was awarded to Ram's Head Society, which presented a Junior Opera Tabloid. Edward Henderson and Melba Berry ruled as King Hilarity and Queen Merriment, having been chosen to preside at the Carnival by popular vote in a Quad election held the week previous. They were attended by Mary Tuthill, Adelaide Graves, F. A. Betts and W. O. Russell.

In connection with the Venetian Cafe, members of the Illinois Athletic Club swimming team gave some exhibitions of plain and fancy swimming. The swimming exhibition was concluded by a fifty-yard breast stroke swim by E. H. Julien, '22, national Junior breast stroke champion.

Other entertainments especially worthy of mention were "The Red Dog," managed by Gamma Phi Beta and Sigma Alpha Epsilon, a "Vodvil" performance by Delta Gamma and Phi Kappa Psi, a "Forty-Nine Camp," by Skull and Snakes and Cap and Gown, a "Fashion Show," presented by Kappa Alpha Theta and Alpha Delta Phi, and "How We Do It at Popular Prices," by Kappa Kappa Gamma and Beta Theta Pi.

NO LULL IN THE MERRIMENT OF CARNIVAL NIGHT

Joly-Ups and Formals

The Upperclass Jolly-up held in the Women's Clubhouse on January 17 was distinctively an "old timer" in that pre-war customs were revived. Flannel shirts, "cords," and other attire to which the "Roughs" are partial were the order of the evening. The custom of "no queening" was unearthed for the occasion and strictly enforced. Freshmen and Sophomore men were excluded from the affair with the threat of the tub as an inducement to remain away. The most pleasing feature was the general atmosphere of good will which jolly-ups serve to promote.

The only jolly-up of the fall quarter was given by the Freshman Class in the middle of the quarter. Though the gymnasium proved a little large for the crowd, the affair was a success.

The "Quad" Jolly-up dated for Friday, February 13, was "jinxed" by the "flu" scare.

On April 5 the Crew Dance was held with very satisfying results in every way.

An upper-class Jolly-up was held at the Woman's Club House on May 1.

1922 Cotillion

THE Sophomore Cotillion, given by the class of 1922 on November 26 in the Encina Gymnasium, formally opened the social season of the college year. Chinese decorations, rich and elaborate to the minutest detail of light shades and programs, formed the memorable feature of the dance.

Particularly oriental was a Chinese Buddha, the creation of W. J. Gores, '17, which was enshrined on a platform at one end of the room. Two tall candles burning before the figure enhanced the mystic effect. Glowing punk sticks, carried by the dancers, were also a pleasing attraction. Chinese mats, marked with the names of provinces of China in fantastic letters of orange, blue, and gold, were hung around the walls, making convenient meeting places for dancing partners.

A noted eight-piece orchestra from San Francisco was secured for the occasion. By close attention to every detail of decoration and entertainment the Sophomores were able to put the Cotillion on the list of successful parties.

ARABIAN DECORATIONS FORM THE GORGEOUS SETTING FOR THE 1921 PROM

The Junior Prom

THE NCINA GYMNASIUM, draped in a gorgeous color scheme of purple and red, with an oriental atmosphere prevailing, was the scene of the 1921 Junior Prom. With Arab sheiks as dealers in punch, oriental canopies to sit beneath, spears and Persian sabers hanging from the walls—all this with lights that shown not too brightly—left memories with those who “tripped the light fantastic” at the Prom this year, not soon to be forgotten.

The music and programs were features in themselves. Sixteen dances were numbered in the beautiful leather programs—sixteen dances to music of wonderful harmony. At half past eleven a short intermission allowed all to enjoy the refreshments that were served.

With the closing strains of the last dance the Junior Prom of the class of 1921 passed into record—one that future classes may well strive to surpass.

Baseball Fight

For the first time in the history of underclass competition at Stanford the Freshman-Sophomore baseball fight this year resulted in a draw. Neither team was able in the time allotted to return the marked ball to Varsity Captain F. L. Kallam.

SOPHOMORES HOLDING THE LINE AGAINST 1923'S THIRD ONSLAUGHT

At four o'clock on the afternoon of Monday, May 10, teams representing the two classes lined up on the Varsity diamond, Captain Kallam officiating. The Freshmen immediately scored twice, and several innings elapsed before their opponents gained the one run lead required by tradition. Kallam then threw the marked ball into the air.

The 1923 men secured the sphere and were successful in smuggling it away from the field.

At nine thirty o'clock in the evening Harvey Newland, '21, of the Varsity, took his position at the football bleachers to receive the ball from the class which should return it. The Sophomores lined up in front of the stands to stop the Freshmen masses which soon appeared.

In the furious fight that followed during the half hour period the "Frosh" were unable to return the ball to Newland, partly because of halts called to relieve the injured men, partly because of the difficulty of Newland's position, and partly because of the desperate defense of the Sophomores.

Stanford's Labor Day

May 13 was declared a university holiday that the students might clean up the old Stanford home on the "Farm" to prepare it for use as a convalescence home for children. In speaking of the work of the university students and friends, Dr. Wilbur stated that he knew of nothing that would have given Mrs. Stanford more pleasure than to know that her former home was being used to benefit California children, whom she had always loved.

Stanford's first "Labor Day," with the barbecue and entertainment combination, proved a wonderful success.

Football Rally

STANFORD enthusiasm ran rampant at the annual football rally held two days before the big American game with California. Under the expert direction of Yell Leader W. T. Martin and his assistants, R. H. Armstrong and W. H. Kinney, the students unanimously voiced their approval of the team. When the coach and team marched in to the tune of "Come, Join the Band," the evening's enthusiasm rose to its height.

Leland Cutler and Frank English, two well-known Stanford alumni, were the speakers of the evening. They were heartily received by all. Following these speeches Captain E. R. Caughey and Coach M. C. Evans were called upon to say a few words to the group.

The inside rally then adjourned, and the noise-makers serpentine their way to the huge bonfire in back of Encina Hall, which had been taking the time of the Freshmen for the past week. The pyre had been started when the crowd assembled and it was soon a mass of flames.

The fire rushed up through the timbers and soon the model Campanile, which had been erected at the peak of the structure as symbolic of the hopes of Berkeley, was completely demolished amid the shouts of several thousand spectators. Headed by the cheer leaders and band the students marched around and around the conflagration. School yells were given until the structure collapsed to the ground, a mass of smouldering embers.

The Football Rally is an annual spirit and "pep" producer, and is looked forward to not only by the Freshmen who construct the bonfire, but by thousands of outsiders who visit the campus to witness the blaze.

Spring Sports Rally

SPRING sports were given a riotous send-off in the annual rally held in Encina Hall on January 15, for the purpose of arousing enthusiasm in all of the spring athletic activities. The three yell leaders kept the crowd in an uproar, and they found it difficult to quiet the men long enough for the speeches to be made. Spirited addresses were given by the captains of the various teams and by Coach Evans, Trainer Maloney and Dr. Angell, who urged that all those present signify their intentions of going out for some sport. C. S. Davis, '20, outlined the prospects for crew. Track was represented by W. B. Wells, '20; basketball by R. F. Pelouze, '19, and baseball by H. E. Newland, '21.

"CASH" DAVIS GIVES THE BOYS INSIDE DOPE ON CREW

WITH a beautiful setting of spring weather as a background the program of the 1921 Junior Week this year met with wonderful success. More could not have been desired than the delightful spring days and clear evenings which graced the campus from Thursday, May 6, to Saturday, May 9. With the promise of a week of fun—studies temporarily laid aside—it is little wonder that attendance at Prom and Opera were records in themselves.

A display of lake fireworks on Thursday evening proved to be the initial event of the week. Roman candles, rockets and other fiery exhibitions furnished entertainment for those on the shore of Lagunita. The blazing effect of the numerals of the class of '21, though, proved the feature of the evening. On the following night the Prom was enjoyed at Encina Gymnasium.

Saturday, May 8, was the gala day for events. The lake sports in the morning were a source of enjoyment to both roughs and queeners. The jousting matches, canoe and swimming races, all did their part in making the lake sports a real aquatic exhibition, thanks to Lagunita which after a long period of hesitation gratified all by filling full with water.

A COMPOSITE GLIMPSE OF SOME JUNIOR WEEK FESTIVITIES

On Saturday afternoon the devotees of the cinder path sport had the opportunity of witnessing the Oregon Aggies and the Stanford Varsity engage in their dual track meet. The contest, interesting in every aspect, was largely attended. Immediately following the meet, through the courtesy of the Zeta Psi fraternity, a delightful dansant was enjoyed by the "Queeners" at their house near the lake.

At 8:30 the same evening the curtain rose on the 1921 Junior Opera.

A musical comedy of two acts, it proved real entertainment for two hours or more, introducing new and catchy airs. The production, called A Leap Year Leap, was a two-act comedy worked around a clever plot involving a cast of twenty-five characters or more. The settings were well chosen and the costumes were very attractive. Coupling these facts with parts that were well played it may safely be said that A Leap Year Leap closed in a most appropriate manner a highly successful Junior Week.

Polo

POLO has, up to the present time, made its appearance in but few American universities because of its prohibitive cost. At the beginning of the current season, Yale, Princeton, and Cornell were the only institutions where polo facilities were available, but Stanford has at last entered the lists, and at present the sound of galloping ponies and clicking mallets may be heard almost any afternoon on the newly-constructed field east of Encina Hall.

The Field Artillery Unit of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps is directly responsible for the innovation of this modern branch of sport on the campus. The horses and equipment are the property of the Government, and the practical instruction in the game is a part of the regular training course for officers in the field artillery. The energy and enthusiasm of Captain L. P. Collins, head of the artillery unit, have been of incalculable benefit in gaining for Stanford the distinction of being the first Western university to foster the mounted sport.

Two teams, known as the Reds and the Whites, staged an exhibition match as a feature of the Military Tournament on May twenty-second, and tentative negotiations are under way for games with San Mateo and Del Monte. The fact that our student body is drawn from men familiar with horses should foster an interest in the game, and, before many seasons have passed, polo may be among the foremost of inter-collegiate sports.

ARMENIAN GENERAL SOLICITS CAMPUS SUPPORT FOR HIS STRICKEN NATION

The Stanford R. O. T. C.

THE Reserve Officers' Training Corps was first established at Stanford in October, 1917; was followed by the S. A. T. C. for the period October 1, 1918, to December 20, 1918, and the R. O. T. C. was re-established in January, 1919.

The object of Congress in establishing units of R. O. T. C. in universities and colleges has been to create a reserve of young men so far trained in military matters as to make them available as officers in time of the country's need, and to enable them to prevent for themselves and for those under their command much of the waste of life and property which our country's unpreparedness has so tragically cost her in every war.

CAPT. SAMUEL M. PARKER (Rtd.)

At this particular time in our history military training in schools and colleges is attracting more and more interest, and to those who have always advocated it for the manliness, self-discipline, and physical benefit it gives to the young man are added those who have come to see in the training of our youth one of the best methods of assisting the country to hold her place in the world of nations, and of enabling her to maintain before the world those principles of self-government, justice, and peace which make her the America of our love and pride.

CAPTAIN SAMUEL M. PARKER (Rtd.)

The Stanford Field Artillery Unit

FIELD Artillery instruction was started at the beginning of the present college year with two officers and a detachment of about a dozen enlisted men as assistants. This was increased during the fall to a total of over thirty men. The University constructed during the fall quarter a building to house the enlisted detachment; a set of stables and a gun shed, all in the grove of eucalyptus trees east of the athletic field. The ample equipment furnished by the Government, comprising as it does field guns of all calibers, fire control instruments of the latest designs, tractors, trucks, harness, saddles and horses, combined with the excellent housing facilities provided by the University, give Stanford a field artillery plant of which it may well be proud. There are few colleges in the country—twenty to be exact—which have field artillery units, and of these not many have the wonderful facilities in the way of man material, climatic conditions and terrain possessed by Stanford. It should be able in years to come to turn out thousands of reserve field artillery officers well fitted to serve their country in time of need.

CAPTAIN EAGER

Most new enterprises in their inception have to pass through periods when they live chiefly on hopes for the future, when difficulties have to be met and overcome, when growth is slow and a mutual understanding must be built up. This experience is ours also, but with the first year nearly over we feel that we can look back on it now with the conviction that the new field artillery unit is fitting in with college life, with the customs and ideals of Stanford. This is due in no small measure to the earnest work done by the men taking the course. They have shown by their work that they appreciate fully the value to themselves, to their alma mater and to their Government of the avocation for which they are fitting themselves. The horses have "policed" some, calculation of firing data has floored others, but they have always come up smiling and ready to try again, which, after all, is the test of the true American spirit. And this is the spirit which typifies the Stanford Battery.

Review of the 1919-1920 D. P. A.

This year found the Daily Palo Alto back to the standard reached before the war and with many of its old staff back. An attempt was made throughout the year and, for the most part, was well carried out, of giving the news of the entire campus as completely as possible without allowing sports to crowd out the rest of the news as has sometimes been the case.

For the first time in the history of the Daily, an issue was published during the summer quarter, though only in weekly form. This proved a decided success and will no doubt be followed hereafter and it will perhaps be feasible to publish it more often during this summer quarter. With the return of the Illustrated Review to student control, the magazine supplement, a feature of last year, was discontinued and the Daily staff devoted itself to purely newspaper activities.

The chief problem confronting the staff throughout the year was an inadequacy of news space. Practically the only thing that could relieve this situation was a new press in order that the paper could enlarge to seven columns width, but financial reasons have prevented this to date. However, next year will probably find the Daily increased to seven-column width. In an effort to meet this lack of news space, during the latter part of the year, the paper has been set in 8-point type set on an 8-point slug instead of 8-point type on a 10-point slug as heretofore.

Neil H. Petree, '19, edited Volume 56 until his graduation Christmas when Landis O. Weaver, '19, was elected to complete the term. Miss Ellen Calhoun, '20, edited Volume 57.

At the outbreak of the war, the Editorial Board of the Stanford Illustrated Review, representing Press Club, effected a combination of the Review and Alumnus. This step was taken largely because there were few members of the Press Club who expected to remain in college, and it would be very difficult to print a purely undergraduate paper.

According to this arrangement the Illustrated Review has been issued each month under the joint control of Press Club and the Alumni Association, each organization having an equal voice in the affairs of the paper.

During the war the largest part of the Review was devoted to articles and news of interest to alumni. Under the new plan about equal portions of the paper have been devoted to students and alumni.

Stanford is unique in having such a magazine. There are organs published in practically all the colleges for the purpose of keeping former university men in touch with their Alma Mater, and there are many pictorials put out by the colleges, but this University is the only one which publishes the two types of magazines jointly. The success of the scheme has been assured, since during the last year both students and alumni have given the greatest support to the paper.

DONALDSON

VAN EVERY

THE Stanford Cardinal, the art and literary magazine of Stanford University, began publication in November, 1919. It has taken the place of the former Stanford Sequoia. It was determined to establish an entirely new magazine, although still under the nominal auspices of the English Club, which would be a monthly, and which, improved in size, make-up and art work, would continue the best policies of the Sequoia.

The slogan of the Cardinal is "A College Magazine with Professional Standards." It aims to furnish a field for the publication of the best undergraduate stories, sketches, and poetry, as well as to present to Stanford readers well-written, well-informed, and interesting articles on current subjects of national interest.

During the year it has presented a number of very fine reproductions in color of scenes around Stanford by its art director, Pedro J. Lemos. Pen and ink sketches by George Hall, '19, and Walter J. Gores, '17, have also been features of the magazine. The illustrated travel articles by Harry W. Frantz, '17, have been monthly features of the magazine.

After editing four issues of the magazine, Robert A. Donaldson, '17, resigned in March, 1920, and Dale Van Every, '18, was elected editor-in-chief. The Cardinal has found its place in Stanford life, and will in the future serve a true need in the University community.

STANFORD QUAD

STANFORD MEDICAL SCHOOL STUDENT BODY,
SAN FRANCISCO

104

Stanford Medical School

IN OCTOBER, 1908, the trustees of Stanford took over the Cooper Medical College of San Francisco, renamed it the Stanford Medical School, and made it an integral part of the institution. The school was moved to its present location at Sacramento and Webster Streets, adjoining the Lane Hospital.

The Medical School building is a five-story structure, in which are located the classrooms, clinics, and laboratories. The clinics take the form of outpatient clinics, which are maintained by the University and in which all forms of diseases are treated. No charge for professional services is made to patients coming to the clinics for treatment. Where hospital care is deemed necessary, the patient is taken to the Lane Hospital, where over 130 beds are reserved for the use of the clinic patients. A nominal fee is charged in the hospital if the patient is able to pay, otherwise this service is also given free of charge. These clinics, besides making it possible for the poorer person to obtain the best possible medical attention, also furnish a practical means of instruction for the medical students.

The work of the Medical School is divided into ten main departments, each under the supervision of an executive head. The departments of Anatomy, Bacteriology and Experimental Pathology, Chemistry and Physiology are located at Stanford; the departments of Pharmacology, Pathology, Medicine, Surgery and Obstetrics, and Gynecology are located in the Medical School in San Francisco.

Three years of pre-medical work along specified lines are required of the student before entering the Medical School. The first five quarters of this required work is given at Stanford. The work during the next seven quarters is more advanced and is given at the Medical School in San Francisco. The time of the student is now devoted to work in the clinical laboratories, in the hospital wards and in the outpatient department. It is during this period that the student is able to receive practical experience in the clinics, since fourth-year medical men act as assistants in the wards and out-patient departments.

In addition to this training one year must be spent as an interne in an accredited hospital before receiving the degree of Doctor of Medicine.

The Lane Medical Library

The Lane Medical Library was founded, in accordance with the bequest of Mrs. A. C. Lane, by the directors of the Cooper Medical College. The building is a fireproof structure of Colusa sandstone, erected in 1912, opposite the other medical buildings. The main reading room will seat about sixty students. The upper floors of the building are designed to be used for meeting purposes by the various medical societies.

MEDICAL SCHOOL LIBRARY (SECOND LARGEST IN AMERICA)

The library is considered to be one of the best equipped in the United States. When first erected it ranked fifth in this country, and still remains the best of its kind in the West. It has a capacity of 100,000 volumes, and at present there are 46,500 books, irrespective of periodicals, on its shelves. The leading domestic and foreign journals are currently received, and there is a particularly good collection of medical periodicals.

Stanford Hospitals

THE Lane and Stanford Hospitals of today were made possible by the forethought of Dr. Levi Cooper Lane, founder of the Lane Hospital. It was the aim of the doctor's life to erect an institution in which the rich and poor alike could have adequate medical attention. In 1893 he founded his hospital, intending to make it a free institution. The spirit in which the institution was built is shown best by these words of its founder: "This hospital, erected in 1893 by Dr. Levi Cooper Lane, physician and surgeon, with money earned in his profession, is given by him to suffering humanity, and to the art of healing, in hope that the former may here find refuge and relief and the latter exercise of its humane skill and intelligent sympathy."

The ground on which the hospital was built was given by Captain James M. MacDonald. The equipment for the new institution was furnished by the Faculty of the Cooper Medical College. Provision for about one hundred patients was made and the dream of Dr. Lane seemed about to become real. However, owing to the lack of funds the idea of making Lane Hospital a free institution had to be relinquished, although many cases were given free treatment. As the need has arisen the hospital has been gradually enlarged and many improvements made.

In 1912 Lane Hospital with all of the Cooper Medical College holdings became a part of Stanford University. This change made possible the erection of the present Stanford Hospital, which is built adjoining to and which is run in connection with the Lane Hospital. The Stanford Hospital is a thoroughly modern building, and in it are all the conveniences that may be put into a modern hospital. The operating rooms are large and are equipped with the best and latest materials known to modern science. Many other improvements are evident in the workings of the new hospital that are too numerous to mention here. In all it is sufficient to say that the institution is regarded not only as one of the best in San Francisco, but also as one of the best on the west coast.

The School for Nurses

VERY few training schools offer such an opportunity for correlated, practical and theoretical instruction for the student nurse as does the school at the Lane and Stanford Hospitals. The training school, like the hospital, has developed until now its reputation is well established.

In the Lane Hospital, which is now devoted to clinical work, the nurse has an unusual and unique opportunity to observe the scientific treatment and nursing of patients. Practically every type of disease is cared for in the wards of this hospital.

In the Stanford Hospital the nurses have the opportunity of working under entirely different circumstances, and are able to learn the intricacies of private nursing. Here they work with the most modern and complete equipment and conveniences.

A well planned course in the science of nursing, which includes lectures by the leading medical men of the city on special subjects, is given along with the practical training. Practical experience in the clinics and Social Service Department furnishes valuable training for future work.

Social Service Department

In connection with the Medical School, Stanford University maintains an out-patient clinic service. This service is available to needy patients who are unable to pay for the necessary medical attention and who do not require hospital attention. Patients suffering from all sorts of diseases are treated at these clinics. The average daily attendance is about 200.

STANFORD MEDICAL LIBRARY
LANE CLINICS AND HOSPITAL IN BACKGROUND

When it is found that hospital care is necessary the patient is sent, if possible, to the Lane Hospital, where about 130 beds are reserved. The patient is expected to pay for care in the hospital if he can afford to do so. If not, all costs are paid by the University, or by funds derived from other sources. In no case is there a charge for professional services to clinic patients.

This clinical work is but a small part of the duty of the department. They give help of all kinds to the various cases that come under their notice. The kind of help needed may take the form of the securing of work in one case and the finding of friends in another. It may result in the sending of the patient to a convalescent home, such as the one maintained on the campus for the children. Its main idea is just to be of some help.

On the campus at Stanford University a clinic for children is equipped and maintained by the University. Convalescing youngsters who are either too weak to return to their homes or else their homes are not equipped with the proper necessities of life are sent free of charge to this clinic, where women students who are taking courses in nursing and social welfare gladly give many hours each week to their intellectual and physical training.

Nursing---Both View Points

Patient Says.....Nursie, please nursie,
 Just one little drink
 And my pillows are hot,
 And nursie, I think,
 There are crumbs in my bed,
 That have been there since lunch.
 My flowers, nursie,
 Just one little bunch
 Of roses and violets
 And maybe some more.
 Oh! Nursie, my call bell
 Just dropped on the floor.
 Dear! What is that noise?
 Can't you make them be quiet?
 Please, what did the doctor
 Say about diet?
 My pillows like that,
 You have such a knack!
 Would you mind, if I asked you
 To rub my poor back?
 Oh see! There's my handkerchief
 Clear out of reach.
 Do you think it would hurt
 To eat half this peach?
 Am I looking much better?
 The doctor says so
 And I guess if I wasn't
 He surely would know.
 I know I'm as perfect
 As patients can be,
 For nursie, you never Get tired of me!

Nurse Thinks.....It's something, always something,
 Every time I turn around,
 It's handkerchief, or powder puff,
 Or nail file to be found.
 My arms are weak from rubbing
 Either back, or arms, or head.
 To undergo this morning round
 I'd sooner far be dead.
 She takes me for a "flunkie,"
 A chamber maid, and cook.
 She makes me play the leading role
 Of diplomat, or crook.
 I really couldn't tell her
 Half the things she wants to know,
 I have to lie, then vainly try—
 To make her think it's so.

The Year In Debate

THE development of a large number of speakers, together with the creation of a more widespread interest in the activity, has been the chief aim of this year's work in debating. This end has been accomplished, first, by the use of a coaching system which permits an almost unlimited number of candidates to receive fundamental training in the collection, organization, and presentation of material on the subjects of intercollegiate contests, and secondly by arranging a more complete schedule of debates with other colleges than has been attempted heretofore. While the immediate aim has been accomplished the results of actual competition have not been so successful. Training for larger numbers has necessitated relative lessened individual instruction with resultant strong, independent, but less polished teams. The increased number of contests has created a demand for large numbers of speakers which it has been frequently impossible to meet with seasoned material.

Facilities for debaters have been greatly improved by the arrangement of a permanent seminary room in the library where members of the faculty lecture to the debaters on matters concerning their work, and where it is possible to keep a record of bibliographical data and evidence.

The number of debates published during the year has been a clear indication of the standing of the University in the debating world. Four debates in which Stanford has participated have been printed by national publishers of debating handbook series.

The small number of victories of the year is more than balanced by the promise of future debating success from the large number of good speakers developed.

MILLER L. McCLINTOCK.

The Medaille Joffre Debate

THE twenty-eighth annual debate of the series founded by Baron Coubertin of France for the Medaille Joffre, formerly the Carnot, was held in Wheeler Hall, University of California, on the evening of April 24. Stanford was represented by H. G. Blote, '18; M. M. Goldstein, '20, and D. L. Goodman, '22, with L. B. Martin, '22, as alternate. W. F. Leiser, '21, veteran of two previous Joffre contests, was obliged to withdraw from the team only a week before the debate was held. The California debaters were C. C. Hildebrand, '20; K. L. Williams, '22, and C. L. Kincheloe, '23. The judges were Judge John J. Van Nostrand and Attorneys H. U. Brandenstein and O. K. Cushing. The President of the University of California, David P. Barrows, presided over the debate.

From the general subject, the French Electoral System, the specific question, Resolved, That in the interest of political democracy in France, the Scrutin D'arrondissement is preferable to the Scrutin re Listle with or without proportional representation, was chosen by Professor Carlton Hayes of Columbia University.

The Medaille Joffre is an individual debate, the medal being awarded to the most effective speaker of the contestants. While the result can never be predicted, in view of the exceptionally powerful speakers comprising the Stanford team it was somewhat of a surprise when the judges finally agreed on K. L. Williams of the California trio as the most effective speaker.

California vs. Stanford

A CUSTOM of pre-war days was reinaugurated on November 21, 1919, the night before the Big Game, when Stanford met California in the first intercollegiate debating contest of the year. The question discussed was, Resolved, That Congress should adopt the Plumb Plan of railroad control. Stanford, supporting the affirmative, was represented by C. O. Fenlason, '20; M. M. Goldstein, '20, and D. T. Goodman, '22, with A. E. Murphy, '23, as alternate. The California trio was composed of A. F. Breslau, '20; C. C. Hildebrand, '21, and J. V. Peyser, '21. The debate was held at Wheeler Hall, University of California, Professor Thomas Reed presiding. Justices Angellotti and Wilbur and Judge Crothers were the judges of the forensic struggle. The decision was 2 to 1 in favor of California.

Daniel Goodman, as the first speaker for the affirmative, skillfully laid down the fundamentals of the question, and emphasized the direct benefits which the public would realize from the Plumb Plan.

Clayton O. Fenlason continued the work of the affirmative, particularly dealing with the need for industrial democracy as secured through the Plumb Plan.

Matt Goldstein, in the final main speech for Stanford, deftly refuted the negative attacks, showed that labor would not abuse its responsibility and summed up in clear form the arguments of the affirmative.

The rebuttals of both sides were featured by witticisms and brilliant cross-refutation, which kept the large audience keyed up to intense excitement.

Stanford vs. Redlands

ANOTHER phase of railway labor problems was the subject for discussion between the University of Redlands and Stanford University on the evening of April 6, the exact wording of the question being, Resolved, That all railway labor disputes should be submitted to a Federal board with compulsory powers. L. W. Hodges, '21; T. G. Irwin, '23, and J. H. Anglim, '23, represented Stanford on the negative, opposed by F. D. Fagg, Jr., R. E. Untereiner and Vernon Green of Redlands maintaining the affirmative. The debate took place in the Little Theater, Professor West of the Political Science Department presiding. Coach Nichols of the southern college accompanied his speakers. The judges were Judge W. H. Langdon of San Francisco, Charles F. Woods of San Jose, and Professor Cline of the College of the Pacific. The decision was unanimously against Stanford.

Although the Redlands team had been debating the same question successfully on an extensive tour of eastern colleges, the unusual mode of attack adopted by the Stanford team under the advice of Coach McClintock was a surprise to their opponents, and an important factor in the strong case presented by the local debaters. Ease of delivery acquired by long training and experience was the element that won the decision for the Southern Californians. The speeches will be published in debating annuals published by two firms. These publications will be in the Library before the Fall Quarter. They will be valuable references for future debaters.

Stanford vs. Oregon

UNDER the auspices of the Pacific Coast Debating League, the Tri-State debate between the universities of Oregon, Washington and Stanford was held on March 5. The question discussed in the six simultaneous debates was, Resolved, That organized labor, in its movement for the closed shop, should receive the support of public opinion.

On the farm Stanford met the debaters of the University of Oregon, the home team advocating the affirmative of the question and the visitors the negative. The Stanford representatives were C. G. Crobaugh, '20 and P. F. Erickson, '21. Pitted against them were Kenneth Armstrong and Paul Patterson of Oregon. The debate was held in the Little Theater under the chairmanship of Professor Bassett of the local Public Speaking Department. The decision was cast by W. D. Cole of Oakland and A. F. Lange and Charles Martin of Berkeley. Stanford was defeated by the visiting speakers by a two-to-one vote.

Stanford vs. Washington

WHILE Stanford's affirmative team was having difficulty in establishing the contention that the public should support labor's movement for the closed shop, the negative team was in an unexpected predicament in opposing the question at Seattle, against the University of Washington. The house was packed with the labor element as well as those connected with the university, and the audience was with the affirmative from the start.

Stanford's representatives in the north were R. C. Fisher, '22, and W. M. Kilpatrick, '23. These debaters were opposed by Kai Jensen and Kenneth Collins of Washington. The contest was judged by D. F. North and Judge W. H. Pemberton of Bellingham and S. F. McAnally of Tacoma. Ray Dumett, a former debater against Stanford, acted as chairman. The decision was unanimously in favor of Washington.

The Washington team was favored by the experience of debating the same question in a previous State contest, and by the establishment of the closed shop in Seattle industries. Furthermore their presentation was markedly effective. In spite of these advantages to their opponents the Stanford trio presented a strong case, admittedly superior in argument.

The spirit of the University of Washington toward debating was in marked contrast to the lack of interest prevailing at Stanford. After the debate at Seattle the visiting team were guests at an informal banquet and dance given by the debating societies of the hostess university. There were over a thousand people out to hear the arguments, and the labor classes were especially well represented. The interest in this question is very keen in the north.

Stanford vs. Southern California

ASIDE from the individual test provided in the famous Joffre, the most difficult problem confronting Stanford debaters this season was faced in the Southern California tour made by a squad of four debaters in May. This squad met Occidental College on May 14, and the University of Southern California on May 15, the general subject being the Mexican problem.

In the contest with Occidental College on May 14, Stanford was represented by C. J. Crobaugh, '20, W. H. Miller, '21, and T. E. Bowen, '23. These debaters proposed the military intervention of the United States in Mexico to re-establish order.

On the following night, in the debate with University of Southern California, the personnel was somewhat changed, the team consisting of C. J. Crobaugh, '20, P. F. Erickson, '21, and T. E. Bowen, '23. The exact question discussed was Resolved, That the United States Should Become a Mandatary to Mexico. The Stanford men took the negative on this proposal.

In the debate with Southern California, the Stanford debaters based their arguments on a belief that conditions in Mexico are improving gradually. If the United States undertakes to become a mandatary to Mexico, war on the part of the Mexicans to resist America will solve her own problem.

The QUAD went to press before the decision was received.

Nestoria V. Euphronia

A contest of increasing rivalry each year is the annual debate between the two men's debating societies, Nestoria and Euphronia. In spite of the fact that Nestoria has been defeated for two consecutive years past, the victories of the Euphronians only serve to stimulate the losers to redouble their efforts to win, and their opponents to defend their enviable record.

This year's debate was held in the Little Theater on February 16, on the same question discussed in the Tri-state debate—the closed shop. Nestoria was represented by W. C. Fundenberg, '20, a veteran of preceding contests, S. G. Trimble, '22, and R. E. Lewis, '23, supporting the affirmative. Euphronia opposed the closed shop, the team being composed of P. F. Erickson, '21, H. A. Fendler, '22, and T. E. Bowen, '23. Professors West, Kirkwood, and Trotter were the judges of the debate, and Coach McClintock presided. The judges rendered a decision unanimously for the negative.

Although the personality, preparedness, articulation, and gesturing of the two squads were equal, it is conceded that Nestoria had the side of the question which was not only more difficult to prove but against which is the presumption of any intelligent American audience.

Euphronia vs. Forum of the College of the Pacific

THE Euphronia Debating Society inaugurated a new custom when it held a debate with the Forum of the College of the Pacific on December 4, 1919. Each organization was represented by two teams, one visiting the opposing society, and the other meeting the opposition on the home ground. The question under discussion was Resolved, That Strikes of Railroad Employees be Prohibited by Federal Law. H. A. Fendler, '22, and F. C. Hutchens, '23, presented the negative arguments at San Jose; while I. M. Smith, '22, and C. G. Smith, '22, supported the affirmative at Stanford. The alternates were Joseph Mandl, '20, and W. H. Mattox, '23. The decisions in both cases were two to one against Euphronia.

These simultaneous debates were spirited contests, well supported by the two societies. The establishment of such a custom of holding contests with outside organizations is a worthy aim, for such debates promote interest in the activity and add to the prestige of the society.

Nestoria V. St. Ignatius

Not to be outdone by their rivals in the matter of holding debates with outside institutions, the Nestoria Literary Society debated St. Ignatius College of San Francisco on May 12. In this debate each institution was represented by two teams of three men, the affirmative teams debating on the home platform, while the respective negative trios were the visitors.

The affirmative Nestoria contestants were L. W. Gerson, '22; R. E. Lewis, '23, and C. R. Minard, '23. On the negative the debaters were A. R. Albouze, '19; J. T. McMenamin, '20, and H. W. Brown, '22. Of the negative trio, the work of McMenamin must be specially mentioned as most effective. The result of this contest was not known in time for publication in the QUAD.

Euphronia V. Congress

Before the annual intersociety debate it had been agreed that the winner of the Euphronia-Nestoria contest should meet the winner of a similar intersociety debate at the University of California to determine the most effective debating society team in the two universities. Accordingly, Euphronia Debating Society met the Congress of California on April 21 at Stanford. The question selected for discussion was: Resolved, That college teachers should organize and affiliate with the American Federation of Labor. Euphronia's team, composed of E. H. Landel, '21; H. A. Fendler, '22, and C. G. Smith, '22, took the negative of the proposition. Their opponents, maintaining the affirmative, were J. G. Benson, '22; A. E. Murphy, '23, and R. J. Junker, '23. The debate was judged by Professors Wildman, Kirkwood and McClintock of the Stanford Faculty, McClintock acting as chairman as well as judge. The judges rendered a unanimous decision for Euphronia. Although it was a clear Euphronia victory throughout, the work of E. H. Landel was particularly effective, and made the defeat of the Congress team the more certain.

Student Control

PREVIOUS to the period of America's active participation in the World War, Stanford was under a system of Student Control. When Stanford men began to leave the university in order to partake in that great war, the very foundation of Student Government seemed to fall, and it was soon necessary for the faculty to take over the disciplinary work of the university.

Agitation for a resumption of Student Control had assumed great impetus under faculty supervision. Upon the return of some of the old men to Stanford, a group of holdovers and seniors drew up a constitution for Student Government which was adopted by the Associated Students. Under this constitution five men are elected from the senior class and holdovers to form the Men's Council for Student Control. The purpose of this council is to settle all cases of discipline in matters pertaining to men students, and to maintain a proper attitude among the students in such matters.

The Council takes action in the form of a recommendation to the President of the University as to the disposition to be made of each case, this recommendation to be approved or disapproved by him.

Another important phase of the constitution is that the responsibility for the proper regard of all traditions of Stanford rests upon the senior class. To the extent that members of that class co-operate with the Men's Council will Student Control be a success. At present Student Government is proving not only possible but also desirable, and it is hoped that it may never be necessary for the faculty to assume control in the future as it did in the past.

Geology and Mining Society

IN THE fall of 1892 the Geology and Mining Society of Stanford University was formed by a group of men from the Geology and Mining Department. Its objects were to further the interests of its members in the study of geology and mining and to act as a connecting link between the faculty and students of the department.

Since that time, with these objects still as a foundation, the society has expanded in numbers and in scope so that today it exercises a great and varied influence in the Geology and Mining Department. It controls the honor system of its department, being one of the first societies in the university to take over this responsibility. It stands as an open forum for the faculty, alumni, and students where all may meet on a common ground.

In the spring of each year, the Geology and Mining Society publishes an annual. It contains a directory of all students who have registered in the departments, giving a list of the positions that they have held since leaving college and their present addresses. Articles by prominent alumni and professors of the departments, many of whom stand at the head of their profession, are also included, making the annual an interesting booklet for all Stanford men interested in geology and mining. Besides the interest which the annual creates in the department as an entertainer, for the articles are generally written by men of authority, it is a depository of the records of Stanford's geology and mining graduates, and as a recorder and reference book it is of especial value.

The society aims to co-operate at all times with the Engineering Department to raise the standard and ideals of its graduates.

ORGANIZATION OF STANFORD ATHLETIC DEPARTMENT

Athletic Departmental Organizations

As a result of considerable reorganization in the departments of physical training at the University, Stanford athletics have been placed on a new basis involving business methods of administration. The plan followed is that of division of responsibility among departmental heads who are subject to the authority of a central control body.

At the head of the organization are two committees each possessing a particular function. The first of these is the Faculty Athletic Committee, whose members are appointed by the President from the Faculty staff. This body determines the general athletic policy of the University. The second committee is the Board of Control, consisting of three faculty members appointed by the President, three alumni chosen by the Alumni Executive Committee, and three students elected by the student body in a general election. This committee of nine is the administrative body, and has control over the arrangement of schedules, the budget, and the selection of staff members to be appointed by the President upon the Board's recommendation. In addition the Board of Control employs a manager who directly manages the five major sports.

Upon the recommendation of the President the Board of Trustees appoints a director of the department of Physical Training, who exercises direct control over all the divisions of the department. He is also the executive member of the Board of Control, chairman of the Faculty Athletic Committee, and Faculty representative in the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate Conference.

Activities in the department of Physical Training are divided into five main groups. These are: hygiene, including physical examinations, athletics, gymnastics, aquatics, and professional courses for the training of teachers in physical education. Athletics, gymnastics, and aquatics are the laboratory courses of the department and are divided into extra-mural and intra-mural. Individual and class instruction are given throughout the year in all activities, contests, and tournaments conducted for the main body of students. The organization is so worked out in detail that everyone is given an opportunity to enter every form of activity and to receive all the social, physical and moral advantages resulting from physical training.

A Review of the Athletic Season

ALTHOUGH a record of the 1919-1920 athletic season only shows one victory for the Cardinal over the Blue and Gold, a perusal of the accounts of the other Stanford-California games will show that the wearers of the Stanford colors gave everything they had in their battles against the Berkeley teams, and the whole season is one of credit to the Stanford teams, despite the lack of victories for the Cardinal Varsities.

In the first encounter between the traditional enemies, which took place on the Stanford Field on November 17, the California football eleven defeated the Stanford Varsity by the score of 14 to 10 in one of the best exhibitions of American football ever seen on the Pacific Coast. Playing in its first season of American football the Stanford eleven, under the leadership of Coach Bob Evans, gave its experienced opponents the battle of their lives, and during the last half, swept them off their feet. The sound of the timer's gun prevented the Cardinal backs from carrying the ball over the line for the winning score. It was a game in which Stanford fight and determination predominated as the keynote of the fray.

Following the football season, Coach Evans started out to build a basketball team to defeat the Blue and Gold and he succeeded so well that his quintet won the championship of the Pacific Coast Conference. California was defeated in two straight games and the Stanford five completed the season by winning every game on its trip to Oregon. Only one game was lost, the Washington State team defeating Stanford in the early part of the season.

With the beginning of the spring sport season, Stanford turned its attention to developing winning track, baseball and crew Varsities. The track team had won seven straight from its rival and the baseball team had won its series from the Blue and Gold last year. The crew lost to California last year for the first time in ten years. All of these facts gave the Stanford student body hope for a clean sweep over the Bruin teams. But the dope went the other way, and California won every one of the spring events.

The track team went up against its rival with the smallest squad in the history of track athletics at Stanford, but with several stars upon whom Coach Maloney relied upon to win the meet for Stanford for the eighth straight time. These few men did their best and when the relay, the deciding event of the day came around, the score was 65 to 61 in favor of California. The Cardinal relay team lined up against their opponents, composed of two quarter-milers and two sprinters. These men did their utmost to head the flying Blue and Gold team, but they could not stand the pace, and California broke the long string of Stanford victories, winning by the score of 70 to 61.

Stanford went up against California in baseball with a team as strong or stronger than last year's nine and with high hopes of winning. However, in the first game, the Bruin sticksmiths got on a batting rampage and won the game 5 to 1. In the second contest, played at Stanford, the Cardinal team went to pieces and California came out victorious by the score of 10 to 7.

The annual Stanford-California Regatta, held on the Oakland Estuary on April 17, resulted disastrously for Stanford. The California crews came in victorious three times, the Varsity, second Varsity and Freshman crews losing to the Blue and Gold boats. The Cardinal eights rowed strong races but they could not forge ahead of their competitors at any stage during the regatta.

In the minor sport field, California again scored the most victories. The swimming, rugby, and handball teams were the only Cardinal aggregations to win over their California rivals, while the Blue and Gold came out victorious in tennis, cross country, boxing and wrestling.

Besides the athletic events, the coaching question took a prominent place in Stanford's affairs this season. Coach Bob Evans, who had made an enviable record during his two years at Stanford, was not retained for next season by the Board of Athletic Control, much against the will of the student body. Despite the protests of the students, the Board stood by its decision, and next season will see Stanford with a new coach. Under the new mentor's direction Stanford should have a successful season next year.

Coach Evans

Coach Melbourne "Fighting Bob" Evans, who has been in charge of Stanford's athletic instruction in football, basketball and baseball for the past two years. Evans developed the Cardinal basketball players into what turned out to be the Pacific Coast championship quintet, and also organized a surprising American football eleven to meet the strong Bruin team.

Captain Caughey

Captain E. R. Caughey, '19, showed early in the football season that he was a capable man and an experienced player, and fully able to carry the burden of the football captaincy. Caughey played a consistent and strong game in the line throughout the season, and even though injured played through the California game and was a strong factor in the showing that the Stanford eleven made.

Captain-Elect Holt

A. P. Holt, '21, played the most consistent game of any of the Stanford backfield men and his work merited the choice that his teammates made after the Big Game. As next year's captain, Holt will be the mainstay of the backfield, and the Stanford student body looks confidently to him to head a winning eleven.

Preliminary Season

AMERICAN football started its season at Stanford in the latter part of May and the first of June under the direction of Coach "Bob" Evans. Over sixty candidates turned out and a like number reported for the early fall workout beginning September 15, two weeks before the opening of the 1919 Autumn quarter.

With the opening of the Autumn quarter, Coach Evans secured "Brick" Mitchell, former Oregon end, to assist him with the squad. During the early part of the preliminary season the coaching force handled three and four teams each day. The spring training period had been used to teach the men the rudiments of the American game, and the same work was handed out to the candidates during the early part of the fall training. Falling on the ball, tackling the dummy, blocking, practicing on the running posts, and running through simple plays was the program for this period.

The first scrimmages took place between the Varsity and Freshmen and the coaches were able to get a line on the men in these preliminary conflicts.

The Varsity played its first American game on November 15 with an eleven representing the U. S. S. Boston. Coach Evans played his Varsity against the visitors for three quarters and during that time 59 points were scored by the Stanford men while the Boston players failed to register. Despite the fact that the Varsity had only been in one scrimmage contest before the scoring machine was able to work well together and cross the Navy line almost at will.

The Cardinal line, although less experienced than its opponents, was able to repel the line-bucking tactics of the sailors, and to stop the Navy backs without gain. The Stanford backfield men, with the aid of good interference, were able to gain either through the line or around the ends. Campbell, Holt, Bonney and Wark repeatedly made ten and fifteen yards every time they took the ball. Bonney made the first touchdown in the first five minutes of play as a result of a series of end runs, varied with the line bucks. During the three quarters, Bonney made three touchdowns, Holt two, Levy two, Pelouze one, and Reynolds one.

Brilliant open field running by Wark, Holt, Bonney, and Reynolds characterized parts of the game. The Cardinal interference was able to break a way for the backs and the Navy men failed to make effective tackles. Some of the long gains reached fifty and sixty yards.

After the third period, the Freshman team took the field against the Boston aggregation. The Babes managed to score 19 points, making the total score 78 to 0.

The Varsity played its second game of the season against the strong Olympic Club team. The Winged "O" men had superior defensive and offensive work and Stanford finished on the short end of a 13-0 score. Although the Varsity failed to score on the visitors and to keep them from crossing the Stanford line the game was a credit to the Cardinal eleven, playing its second game of Stanford lined up as follows in this game: Adams, L. E.; Flowers, L. T.; Caughey, L. G.; Righter, C.; Bihlman, R. G.; Curtice, R. T.; Pelouze, R. E.; Holt, Q. B.; Campbell, R. H.; Bonney, L. H.; Templeton, F. B. Substitutions: Reynolds for P. Campbell; Wark for Holt; Betts for Flowers; Holt for Wark; Levy for Bihlman.

Consistent football playing defeated the St. Mary's eleven in the fourth game of the season, played at the Stanford field November 1. The Cardinal warriors continued their winning streak started in Oregon by piling up 54 points to 10 against the Catholic team. The Cardinal men out-kicked, out-smashed, out-ran, out-thought and in general out-played the visitors from start to finish. Occasional spurts with forward passes and a couple of long runs by Kauhane were the only attempts that the Oakland players made to worry the Cardinal.

As a whole the Stanford eleven worked in fine shape despite the fact that several of the men were working in new positions. Captain Caughey was a surprise at halfback. He proved to be an excellent ground gainer through the line, and Patrick also worked well in the back field. Pelouze and Templeton worked the on-side kick to perfection for the first two touchdowns. Pelouze played a steady game throughout.

In the first few minutes of play "Dink" Templeton sent a beautiful 80-yard punt over Correa's head, the St. Mary's quarterback. Pelouze went down on the ball fast, and before Correa realized what was happening, the Stanford end had placed the ball between the goal posts. Templeton converted. After the kick-off, Reynolds and Caughey proceeded to gain through the Catholic line until the 10-yard line was reached, and a forward pass failed on the fourth down. Correa punted back up the field and a moment later Templeton worked the on-side kick again and Pelouze carried the pigskin over for the second touchdown. Templeton added another point by converting.

St. Mary's opened up in the second quarter by working the delayed forward pass for twenty yards, Correa to Snow. Kauhane and Correa worked the ball up into

SANTA CLARA BREAKS THROUGH STANFORD LINES

Stanford territory and for the second time the Cardinal line repulsed the attack and forced the visitors to give up the ball on downs.

Correa, playing back on the defensive, seemed to have trouble in holding Templeton's punts, since he managed to fumble four of "Dink's" long spirals.

The next Stanford touchdown came in the third quarter. After a series of line bucks by Caughey and Holt, which brought the play well down into St. Mary's territory, Holt carried the ball over. Templeton kicked the goal. Holt scored again later in the quarter after he made a 25-yard run from the visitors' 25-yard line. Again Templeton converted.

Patrick, replacing Templeton at fullback, scored the last touchdown in the fourth quarter. Two forward passes caught by Pelouze, and several end runs enabled Patrick to make the final score. The conversion failed, making the score 34 to 0.

A total of 303 yards was annexed by the Stanford backs during the game, to a total of 150 yards secured by St. Mary's. Stanford made seven first downs and St. Mary's six. Templeton out-kicked Correa badly, the average for Stanford being 45 2/10 yards and for St. Mary's 29 1/2 yards. The Catholic players attempted to play an open field game with their forward passes, but out of nineteen attempts only three were completed. Of this number the Cardinal intercepted five and eleven failed. However, the three completed passes netted 70 yards.

Prior to the St. Mary's game, the second Varsity played the College of the Pacific eleven team, and succeeded in winning by the score of

BOBBY PELOUZE CIRCLES ST. MARY'S END FOR SUBSTANTIAL GAINS

35 to 0. Due to the fact that several men were unable to play on account of injuries, Coach Evans was obliged to use some of the Varsity men in the lineup.

Straight football without an attempt at open field work counted 13 points for the Stanford Varsity and defeated the Santa Clara eleven

HOLT LOOKS FOR OPENING

13 to 0, Saturday, November 15. "Pret" Holt and Captain Caughey were the men to score the touchdowns, Holt's score taking place in the second quarter and Caughey's in the fourth quarter. Patrick converted Caughey's score.

Coach Evans used nine backs in the game. "Ken" Lilly and Paul Campbell were the two men who had been out with injuries and who were put in the game for a few minutes for the last quarter. Both demonstrated their joy at getting back into the game by their splendid work.

After the first quarter, Coach Harmon of the Mission team saw that he could not make much headway through the Stanford line, so he switched to open field work. Eleven attempts at forward passes were made, one of which succeeded. Seven were failures and three were intercepted by Stanford players.

All of the Stanford backs performed well. Captain Caughey was good for repeated gains through the line, and in the fourth quarter he plunged through for a touchdown after Patrick, substituting for Templeton, ran 45 yards from the middle of the field. Holt bothered the Mission boys considerably with his ability to find holes and make his yards. Holt registered the first touchdown in the second quarter. Danny Carroll put the Cardinal eleven in a position to score by making a 20-yard run around left end, and after several short gains by Holt and Carroll the pigskin was shoved across the line. Templeton failed to convert.

Lilly got into the battle a few minutes before the end of the game for the first time in the season and showed that he would be in shape for the California game. Paul Campbell officiated at halfback for a while in the last quarter, although technically out of the game with an injured wrist.

The five Stanford backs piled up a total of 285 yards against 177 made by Santa Clara. The summary shows that 16 first downs were made by Stanford while Santa Clara registered 9. The Catholic team fumbled twice and Stanford once.

THE BIG GAME

AFTER an interval of fourteen years, Stanford and California met once again in American football on the Stanford field, November 22. The Stanford Varsity went into the game full of confidence and fight despite the discouraging reports from the rival campus as to the strength of the Blue and Gold machine. Coach Evans showed that he had no doubt that the Varsity would make a good showing, when he gave the following statement before the game: "The team will play to the best of its ability, and I am willing to stake my past and future reputation on the results."

Captain Caughey expressed the sentiment of the squad in these words: "The Big Game is back. All over California and the West alumni and the public are rejoicing in this fact. Ten years from now the result of this big game will probably be forgotten by all save a few of the 'best of us.' That is as it should be as far as getting the two universities together is concerned. On the 'Farm,' however, our chief worry is over the result of Saturday's game and that alone. Future games or relations have no interest whatsoever. California is afraid of the Stanford spirit and rightly too, but where they underestimate is to think that is all we have. We are going into that game knowing more football than any university ever knew in its first year. We do not consider ourselves a great team and thus are not handicapped. We are going into the game with the traditional Stanford fight, and a knowledge of the game, and will win the game with those two things if every player will only do as he has been taught.

"I sincerely believe that they will do this and once again the Cardinal will wave supreme over the Golden Bear."

When the timer's gun ended the Big Game, all of the Stanford predictions were verified, for the Cardinal Varsity playing its first season of American football was defeated by the California team 14 to 10 after the red-shirted players had swept the Blue and Gold men off their feet in the second half and took the ball down to the California goal line.

only to lose the chance of winning the battle by the report of the final gun ending the fray. The game was a distinct credit to the University, the players and to the coach.

In dealing out the individual glory for the game, Coach Evans gave "Pret" Holt first place without question. Holt played a perfect game both on the defense and offense, and was the most feared of the Cardinal backs. Next to Holt came "Swede" Righter, who played a strong game in the line at all times. Adams played a good game also in the line. In the backfield Evans gave credit to all of the backs. Bonney, Patrick, Campbell, Wark, Shlaudeman and Templeton all put up great exhibitions. Templeton in particular came through with the first Cardinal score by drop-kicking a field goal from the 45-yard line in the early part of the first quarter. Templeton also punted in great form, although according to Evans, "Dink" was good for 30 yards more on each of his punts. He had been instructed to hold the length of his kick down in order to give the ends a chance to nail the receiver, and to prevent him from getting a good start in running the ball back.

STANFORD FIGHT EVIDENT

As had been prophesied the Stanford fighting spirit was a big factor in the Cardinal showing and during the last few minutes of the game the inexperienced players swept their experienced opponents off their feet by sheer fight. The breaks went against Stanford at this point and the Blue and Gold came out victorious.

California won the toss and Boucher kicked off. Adams received the ball for Stanford and after he was downed, the Stanford backs took up the field, and when the 45-yard line was reached, "Dink" Templeton dropped back, swung his famous right foot and placed a field goal between the California goal posts for three points.

Spratt came right back for California by finding a hole in the Cardinal line for 25 yards. "Dummy" Wells and Deeds made substantial gains and then the Stanford line held and California lost the ball on downs. Templeton kicked and Deeds ran the ball back 15 yards. At this point, Spratt decided to give his backs a rest and switched to an open field game. Three forward passes were attempted in succession, but the Cardinal backs had each eligible man on the California team marked and the passes failed.

CAUGHEY BREAKS THROUGH

Spratt then gave the ball to Brooks and the Blue and Gold skipper made two yards around right end. Spratt then took the pigskin on the next try and was thrown for a two-yard loss. Sprott then attempted another forward pass but Captain Caughey broke through and smeared him. Stanford took the ball and Holt started things going by annexing 15 yards. The quarter closed with Stanford leading 3 to 0.

Intermission Starts

Campbell started the attack in the second quarter by taking the ball for a 1-yard gain. Bonney made four and Templeton booted. The Stanford ends were blocked and Deeds ran in 10 yards before he was stopped. Rowe went in for Captain Brooks at this point and made 1 yard around left end.

WELLS SCORES

California kicked and on the first play Bihlman fumbled on the Stanford 40-yard line. The Bears then started an attack on the Stanford line with all their force. Deeds climbed through for seven yards and Wells found a spot good for 13 more. On the next play Wells made four yards and on his third try he plunged across the Stanford line for a touchdown. Cline converted, making the score 7 to 3. The half ended after Holt had made two gains for 12 and 7 yards, respectively, after the kick-off.

The Stanford line held the Bruin attack at the opening of the third quarter and Sprott kicked 43 yards. Stanford took the ball and after a few attempts at the line, Templeton kicked. Deeds made 13 yards through center and gains by Wells, Sprott and Rowe took the play down to the Stanford line and Wells went over around right end for his second touchdown and Cline converted again.

Wells slipped for a minute in this quarter and fumbled, giving Stanford the ball on the 30-yard line. Templeton kicked immediately and Pelouze dumped Deeds in his tracks. Wells came back at this point and broke through the line for 45 yards.

California attempted another forward pass in the fourth quarter but Adams broke through and tackled Rowe as he was about to pass. California lost 10 yards on this play. Patrick went in for Carroll, and with the ball in Stanford's hands a march was begun with Patrick and Holt making repeated gains through the fast-weakening California line. Majors, the reputed star in the line, was knocked down easily in these plays and the red-shirted backs found no trouble on his side of the line.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY

Cranmer on the opposite side of center proved a harder man to get past than Majors.

Pelouze took the ball for 15 yards around the California right end and then Evans uncorked a forward pass game that swept Andy Smith's men off their feet. Patrick took a pass for 6 yards and a few seconds later Adams caught another one and raced across for a touchdown. Templeton converted, making the count 14 to 10.

After the kick-off Sprott was forced to kick, and the Stanford eleven commenced its march up the field again. Patrick and Holt made their yards easily through the Bruin line and two forward passes brought the play up to the Blue and Gold 5-yard line.

Here the California line stiffened and Patrick was unable to get through. With the timer ready to fire his gun, a forward pass was attempted across the goal line and failed as the timer ended the game.

Freshman Football

ALTHOUGH the 1923 football team played a successful preliminary season of ball, California defeated the first year men by the largest score in the history of football, between the Freshmen elevens of the two rival universities. The Bruin cubs rolled up a score of 47 to 0 in this first year of intercollegiate competition in American football for Stanford since 1905.

Coach "Art" Acker developed a fast, heavy Freshman aggregation that appeared to be a perfect working machine against the teams that met the babes in the early part of the season. Stanford was handicapped through the lack of competition, and the Freshmen were forced to meet elevens that were easily defeated, without much effort on the part of the players. This factor prevented the building up of a finished American football squad.

The babes only played four games of football with outside teams prior to the clash with the Blue and Gold first year men on the Berkeley gridiron, winning each of these preliminary events with a fair margin. The California Freshmen in games with the same elevens failed to pile up as large scores as the team on the "farm."

Ackers men made their first appearance playing in the fourth quarter of a game which the Varsity squad started with an eleven picked from the ranks of the U. S. S. Boston. In their short time of play the babes were able to add three touchdowns to the large score the Varsity had previously made.

The Berkeley High School went down to defeat by a final tally of 23 to 10, while the College of the Pacific Varsity lost by a score of 37 to 6, the following week. The Santa Clara second varsity squad lost to the Freshmen by a thirteen point shut-out score.

Davis Farm, the last preliminary event of the Freshman football season, was the best and most exciting contest of the Stanford first year team's schedule. Following a hard struggle the visitors were beaten by a 23 to 10 result.

Many Stanford fans journeyed to the Berkeley campus to see the contest between the Freshmen of the rival universities, most of whom were fully confident of a Red victory. From the time of the kick-off until the end of the game, however, the Blue and Gold wearers had things in their own hands.

McAlpine kicked off for the Cardinal, and without losing the ball once on downs, California scored their first touchdown. The game was hopeless from a Stanford standpoint. The plunges of the heavy Cardinal backfield seemed futile against the stone wall line of the bay city team.

Van Sant, Erb and Davis were the three backfield stars on the U. C. eleven. When the ball came into their hands their yards were as good as made. Besides their unbreakable plunges and end runs, "Brick" Muller proved to be of untold value at forward passes. One of these throws, which resulted in a touchdown, was estimated traveling a distance of sixty yards.

Even though they were defeated with the large score of 47 to 0, the team is to be congratulated upon the fight which they gave the superior California eleven. Nibs Price, the Bruin Freshman coach, is said to be one of the best football trainers on the Pacific Coast, and all his training of the California men showed itself in evidence throughout the match. The Stanford coach worked under a decided handicap, due to the short training time the team was given before the game with California. Acker worked hard throughout the season with the material that reported for the "frosh" squad, but was unable to overcome the additional three weeks' practice that the U. C. team had over Stanford.

Douglass, Papazian, Pollard, McAlpine, Trago and Captain Creglow were the stars of the Freshman lineup. With these men, along with the Varsity men that will be eligible for the next year's eleven as a nucleus, Stanford has bright prospects of winning the annual Varsity football match from the University of California team in the 1920 season.

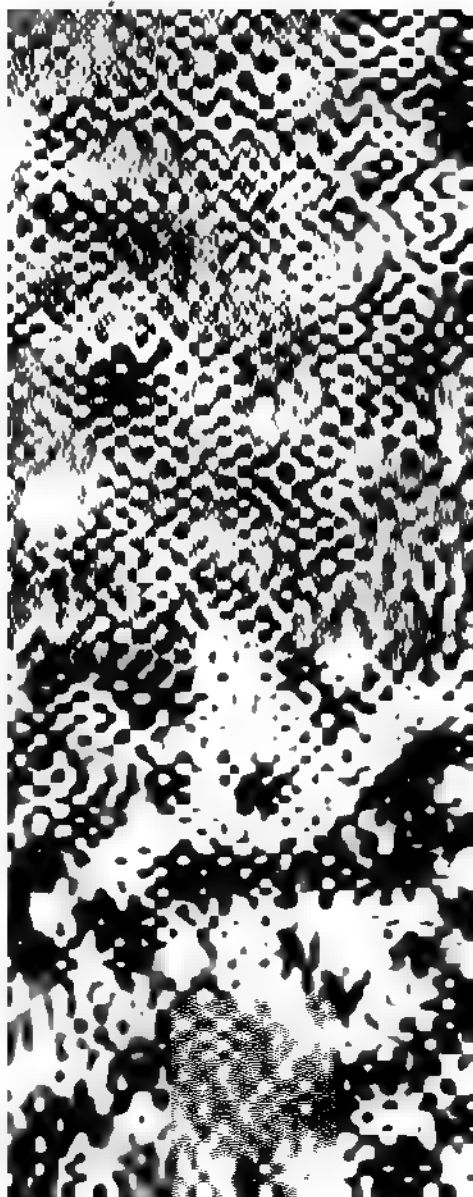

Foreword

STANFORD's basketball quintet made history during the intercollegiate season of 1919-1920. Previous to this year the Cardinal five had never been regarded as a strong team in Pacific Coast basketball circles. It is true the intercollegiate series between Stanford and California usually attracted a great deal of local interest and rivalry, but the Stanford quintet had never been considered a serious candidate for the Pacific Coast championship. Until this year, Stanford had not won a basketball game from California since this branch of athletics was made a major sport.

The feat accomplished by the Cardinal five in rising from a relatively obscure quintet to the position of champions of the Pacific Coast Conference should not pass unnoticed, especially when the fact is considered that the season began with few veterans on the squad and a gloomy outlook in general. The facilities offered for basketball practice and difficulties facing the squad were great enough to upset the proverbial patience of Job. No amount of praise can compensate the Cardinal players who plugged gamely away throughout the season, practising most of the time at night and making notable personal sacrifices in many cases.

The work done by Coach "Bob" Evans in developing a winning five should not be overlooked in placing the glory for this year's success. His development, in the face of the existing difficulties, of a winning team from a group of green candidates is a tribute to coaching ability that can not go unnoticed. Washington State was the only team in the Pacific Coast Conference to win a game from the Cardinals, and even this team was defeated in a previous game. Stanford clearly demonstrated its right to fly a Cardinal flag at the top of the percentage column.

Captain Pelouze

The grit and skill of Captain "Bobby" Pelouze accounts in no small way for the success of Stanford's Pacific Coast Conference championship basketball Varsity.

Pelouze was injured early in the season, but returned to play a great offensive game.

With basketball becoming a bigger sport on the Coast each year, Stanford athletic powers will do well to make a more adequate provision for carrying on basketball practice in the future. More men turned out for basketball this year than ever before. This turnout played no small part in developing material for the Varsity, and unless more adequate provision, in the form of additional playing space, is made in the near future this wave of interest is sure to die down, to the detriment of both Varsity and intramural athletics. Better accommodations for spectators are also needed. The present gymnasium is entirely inadequate to hold the crowds who attend intercollegiate games.

Captain-Elect Butt

No man on the Stanford Varsity can lay a stronger claim to the honor of the captaincy than Dale Butt. A leader and a fighter of the first rank, he is the type of man that inspires his fellow-players to give their best for Stanford. Butt has played guard on the Varsity for two seasons, and on more than one occasion has turned defeat into victory by his brilliant and consistent defense. He was captain-elect of the 1918-1919 basketball Varsity, but found himself battling for Uncle Sam when that season's games were being played.

Stanford-California Series

For the first time since basketball was made a major sport between Stanford and California, the Cardinal five was able this year to capture an intercollegiate series from the Blue and Gold quintet. In previous seasons the contests had been close and hotly contested, but Stanford had not even been able to win a game. Starting the season with the odds decidedly against it, the Cardinal quintet improved in team work and basket shooting until at the time of the series with the Bruins it was predicted that the breaks of the game would decide the winning combination.

The fact that the breaks of the game did not decide the series, but that the Stanford five came through with a decisive victory in both games, is a handsome tribute, not only to the individual players on the team, but to the coaching ability of "Bob" Evans. Taking an unwieldy group of men who knew little of the science of basketball and who had never been able to play together with any degree of efficiency, Evans turned out a perfect basketball machine which was not surpassed by any college quintet on the Pacific Coast. The outcome of this series was an ample justification of the coaching system used by Evans. His development of a championship team from the material on hand was one of the surprises of the season. That the defeat of the Bruins was a decisive one is apparent from a glance at the scores, which read 27 to 20 for the first game and 33 to 24 for the second.

Both teams showed up to their best advantage in the first game, which was played on the Stanford gymnasium floor. The match was one of the fastest played on the Encina court during the season. For perhaps the first time in intercollegiate history the Cardinals outclassed the Bruin five both in floor work and goal shooting. During this game Stanford made eleven goals from the floor to five scored by California. Half the Bruins' points were made on free throws. The Stanford defense put up by Lilly, Butt, and Adams was seldom passed by the Blue and Gold forwards.

Stanford achieved a double victory in the second game, for the Cardinal quintet not only won the series from California, but established a right to first place in the Pacific Coast Conference with a clean record.

This game was harder fought than the first one, and only during the last few minutes did Stanford's lead in the score become decisive. At half time the Stanford team had a 10 to 8 edge on their rivals. The last few minutes showed the superiority of the Cardinal teamwork over the system taught by Coach Hollander of California.

Righter and Mills were the star point winners of the Stanford team, scoring 10 and 9 field goals respectively in the two games. Captain Pelouze played a defensive forward position and his speed was responsible for a great deal of the team's fast work in moving the ball down the court. No account of the basketball season should overlook the work done by Adams, who was the bulwark of Stanford's defense. A mighty power on the basketball floor, Adams perhaps had more to do than any other man in keeping down the score of the California team. Butt played a consistent game all season and developed considerable ability to shoot long-distance field goals. In the second California game he held Eggleston, California's star forward, scoreless. Lilly entered the series, at guard, as a dark horse. Previous to the first California game he had not played on the Cardinal lineup, but the work he did fully justified his selection by Evans to start the game. Davies and Richmond substituted as forwards and Austin as guard during the series, and worked smoothly in the machine-like teamwork developed by Coach Evans. All nine of the men named above won their block "S" during the season.

Pacific Coast Conference Series

ONCE more Stanford athletes added another brilliant chapter to the athletic history of the West. Rising from a position of comparatively little importance in the basketball world, the 1920 Cardinal five swept every team on the coast before it and stood forth as the champion quintet of the Pacific Coast Conference. Such a feat is seldom accomplished, and should go down in basketball history as one of the outstanding features in the development of the indoor game on the Pacific Coast.

The Cardinal five had no difficulty in disposing of every team in the Conference that it went up against, and lost but one contest of the entire schedule. This one, with the Washington State College team, was one of the closest contests of the season, and was won by the Cougars by a one-point margin. No games were scheduled with the University of Washington. After most of the teams in the California-Nevada league had met defeat at the hands of the Cardinals, stock in the Stanford quintet began to approach par. By the time of the P. C. C. series local dopesters were discussing the possibility of winning the Conference series. Up to this time the Cardinal quintet had only been forced to extend itself in one game. That one was lost to the fast University of Nevada five during a bad slump.

The first two games of the Conference series were played at Stanford with the Washington State College team, which had been picked by many sporting writers to take the title. Stanford's showing in these two games gave the Cardinal supporters ground for a great deal of optimistic speculation in regard to the varsity's possibilities. Honors were divided in the games, each being won by a one-point margin.

Both contests were full of thrills from start to finish. Never before had such teamwork and speed been seen on the Encina floor. Both teams were as evenly matched as any two fives that ever took the floor, and at no time during the two games was either team far enough in the lead to relieve the tension of the game. The victory in the first game was largely due to the basket shooting of Richmond, a newcomer on the varsity squad, who was sent into the game during the last three minutes. But these three minutes gave him just enough time to work his way into fame with the Stanford rooters. With Washington State one point in the lead and only a few seconds separating the Cardinals from defeat, Richmond threw a clean goal from the middle of the floor. Stanford won by a score of 30 to 29, and so close was the decision that the timekeepers introduced a pistol into the basketball court the next night to make sure that there would be no mistaking the timer's signal at the end of the game.

The second game with Washington was as keenly contested as the first. This time the score was tied at the end of the second half, and during the extra five minutes the northerners scored one point more than the Cardinals, leaving the final score 35 to 34 in their favor.

The University of Oregon, the next victim to fall before the red-shirted basket tossers, was defeated on the Stanford floor on the evening of February 18 by a score of 36 to 21. As the result of this game Stanford began to lead the Pacific Coast Conference, a lead which the Cardinal team was destined to keep throughout the season. From that time on Cardinal colors headed the percentage column.

Stanford's lead in the Pacific Coast Conference was strengthened the next week when the Cardinal tossers went to Eugene and defeated Oregon again. This time the score was 47 to 15. The Cardinal varsity exhibited Evans's type of defense at its best in this game. At no time were the Oregon forwards able to outwit Stanford's defense, and most of the points in their score were made by foul shooting.

Three more games were played on this northern invasion, and by the time they were over the basketball championship of the Pacific Coast Conference was virtually painted over with Cardinal war paint. The University of Oregon was defeated a third time by the Stanford team. Later in the week the Cardinals demonstrated their superiority over Oregon Agricultural College by winning two successive games at Corvallis. These victories in the north put Stanford away ahead of the rest of the teams in the Conference, with only the California series left to play. Both of these games were won by Stanford, and so the Cardinal quintet finished the series with a record of ten winning scores from eleven possibilities.

Captain Pelouze, Righter, Mills, Adams, Butt, Davies, Richmond, Austin and Hood were the nine men who did the most consistent playing in this series. According to Coach Evans, Mills at center played the best game of any of the team. Butt and Adams ran him a close second on the defensive end of the court, and the playing of Righter and Pelouze at forward could hardly have been improved. Richmond substituted for Mills in several of the games, while Davies and Hood went into many games as forwards. Austin relieved Butt at guard. These four men fitted into their positions on the varsity machine without friction or loss of teamwork, and enabled Coach Evans to keep a strong quintet on the floor at all times.

The following shows the relative standing of the teams at the end of the season:

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Stanford	9	1	.900
California	5	5	.500
Washington State College	5	6	.455
Oregon Agricultural College	5	7	.417

"SWED" RIGHTER

California-Nevada League

FAILURE to come up to form in an early season game with the fast University of Nevada five lost the Stanford quintet first place in the California-Nevada Intercollegiate Basketball League series. Stanford won every other game played in the league. The season ended with Nevada leading the league. Stanford stood second and California was third.

The playing done by the Nevada five in defeating the Cardinal team was one of the surprises of the season. The Mountain team began training early and was in the best of condition when it invaded California. The season started extra late with most of the colleges in the league and as a result the Nevadans made a clean sweep of their invasion of the State, defeating California, Stanford, St. Mary's, and Santa Clara. No credit should be taken away from the Nevada team because of the condition of the other teams of the league. The Mountaineers played like champions, and though light, were undoubtedly the fastest combination in the league.

In the first game of the season Stanford defeated St. Ignatius by a 45 to 35 score on the Encina floor. The next game played at San Jose with Santa Clara resulted in a 31 to 26 defeat of the Missionites. This was one of the best games of the season and the Cardinal team only won by a burst of speed in the last few minutes.

Davis Farm and the College of the Pacific were easy victims to the superior weight, speed and teamwork of the Cardinal quintet. Davis was defeated at Sacramento by a 38 to 21 score and the College of the Pacific five met a similar fate a few days later.

Stanford has hopes of maintaining this year's exceptional record due to the fact that next year's basketball quintet will be composed of seasoned veterans.

"BOB" PELOUSE, DALE BUTT

Freshman Basketball

UNDER the careful guidance of Coach "Art" Acker, Stanford Freshmen developed this year what was perhaps the strongest Freshman aggregation that has worn Cardinal jerseys, yet it was not able to defeat the combination turned out by Coach "Nibs" Price of Berkeley. The first-year men put up a good fight in every game, and although they were decisively beaten in the first game with California Freshmen, the second California victory was only won by breaks of the game. The Freshman five was at a great disadvantage in practice because the available floor space was in use most of the time for varsity workouts or intramural competition, yet the team developed was not unworthy of wearing Cardinal colors and played like a seasoned varsity.

The Freshmen team only met one defeat during the preliminary season, and this one was at the hands of the fast University High School team from Oakland. The first-year men did not come up to par in this game and allowed the prep school lads to score enough baskets to practically win the game before the Cardinal players got under headway. Oakland, Berkeley, San Jose, Oakland Tech, Palo Alto and Mountain View High Schools were among the teams that went down to defeat before the Freshman five.

California Freshmen won the first game of the intercollegiate series by a score of 36 to 22. Twenty-two of the Bruin babes' points were scored by Coop, their undefeatable forward. Time and time again he eluded the Cardinal defense and got unguarded shots at the basket. The Stanford team was weak at shooting free goals, converting only six of seventeen chances into points.

The second game was much closer and was won by the Blue and Gold team by a narrow four-point margin, 32 to 28. At no time during the game was the outcome of this contest certain. Only when the final whistle ended the game with the Berkeley team four points in the lead was a California victory assured. Riebe of California was largely responsible for California's victory in the second game. His speed, clever goal shooting and fast floor work completely outwitted the Stanford guards.

The basketball season was noticeable for the spirit in which it was played. The men worked like true Stanford athletes, striving for victory by clean playing, and the efforts of the players were rewarded by favorable comment from spectators at each game. Fast work served to keep interest at its highest, and although handicapped by a hard floor the men kept a steady pace throughout the season. All the men played a good game, but they lacked teamwork.

Captain Rogers and Dudley DeGroot were the shining lights on the Cardinal first-year squad. Howell, who changed off between center and forward positions, played perhaps the most consistent type of game displayed by the first-year men. He was seldom outwitted and was strong on both defense and offense. Pollard and Anderson did consistent work as guards, and helped keep the California score down in both games. Aside from Coop and Riebe, who played flashy, brilliant games at all times, Captain O'Neill, who played center for the Bruin cubs, was perhaps the strongest player on the California team. He was largely responsible for running the team and holding it together when a minute's slowing up would have meant a Stanford victory.

The following Stanford Freshmen were granted block numerals by the executive committee for participation in the intercollegiate series: Howell, Burkhard, Rogers, Austin, De Groot, Pollard, Anderson and Carpenter.

Preliminary Season

THIRTEEN games filled the preliminary season for the Varsity baseball team, two of which were Pacific Coast Conference matches. This year was the first time a Stanford nine has been entered in the P. C. C.

Throughout the season the team seemed to be playing in streaks. At times the work of the men was infallible, while at other times the whole squad seemed to go up in the air.

Getting started on the wrong foot, the Cardinal lost the first three games, which were practice contests against the Olympic Club and Ireland's Independents. The game with the Winged "O" men resulted in a score of 9 to 1. The first game with Cliff Ireland's nine ended

8 to 2. In a comeback match the next week, the Varsity had the largest end of a 3-2 score until the ninth inning, when Ireland's men started a rally and added seven more runs to their total score.

Coach Evans was unable to start coaching the squad until the season was well under way, due to the extended basketball schedule. However, he had the men well in hand by the middle of March, when the team met the Oregon Agricultural College in the first Conference match of the year.

EATNER CATCHES CALIFORNIA MAN OUT AT FIRST

Both games of the series

Captain Kallam

Captain Kallam took over a hard task when he assumed the duties of leader of the 1920 Stanford baseball team. The Cardinal men were without a coach during the early part of the season, due to Coach Evans's delayed basketball schedule. Working hard every afternoon with his men, Captain Kallam organized a strong early-season nine for Coach Evans to take hold of at the close of Stanford's basketball season. Kallam has been used at all of the infield positions on the team. Starting at short he was shifted to third and then to second. At present Kallam is holding down first base.

proved to be exciting and interesting from both the players' and spectators' points of view. Stanford won the first contest by a 4-3 score. The second game was even more closely contested than the first, but the Cardinal with a ninth inning tally nosed the O. A. C. men out of a possible victory.

The northerners seemed to be playing in hard luck during the first match. Even though their men would get on base oftener than the Cardinal players, their total number of runs at the end of the game failed to give them first honors. The Oregon team knocked out seven clean-cut hits, while the home team was only able to slam three hits into the field.

With the score 2-1 in the second game favoring the Agricultural College team, Stanford came to bat in the last half of the ninth inning resolved to bring victory out of defeat. Bundy leading off for the Cardinal knocked a single through the shortstop, and made second on an over-throw to first base. Kallam made first on an infield hit, while the O. A. C. players were attempting to catch Bundy at third. Kline came to bat and filled the bases. Crowe, who has been Evans' most consistent hitter throughout the season, came through with a single over the second baseman's head, allowing Bundy and Kallam to reach home, making the score 3 to 2 in the Cardinal's favor.

Following this game, Stanford showed its improvement of form by holding the Olympic Club nine to a tie score game. The game was called in the seventh inning on account of rain.

A winning streak started during the spring vacation, when the Cardinal team won four straight practice games against the Monterey Eleventh Cavalry, Frisco All-Stars, and the Bean Spray nine.

Stanford pulled the surprise of the season by winning from the Monterey horse-men, who were expected to gallop around the bases at random. The first clash ended with a 3-2 score following a hard

DOUG. BUNDY, who was chosen by the baseball men to Captain next year's Varsity, has been playing with the first string lineup for two years and will be able to lead the Cardinal to a 1921 victory. Bundy's ability to catch, play first or in the outfield makes him one of the team's most valuable assets.

CROWE MAKING A WINNING HIT IN SECOND CONFERENCE GAME

while the Bean Spray nine put up a harder fight, which ended with a Cardinal win of 3-2. Following these games, Coach Evans' men started with intensive practice for the match with the University of California, the three-game series against Santa Clara, and the remaining games in the Pacific Coast Conference series. Every afternoon the Varsity and Freshman nines were matched against each other in practice. Evans used this means of watching the work of both teams.

Santa Clara was the winner of their three-game series against Stanford, winning the second and third battles. The first game ended with twelve-inning fight. The second game went to the Stanford diamond artists by a 2 to 1 score. The tight ball of the Cardinal twirlers and the errorless playing of the infield is accountable for the victory.

The other two practice games during the vacation were easy contests for the team on the "farm." The Frisco All-Stars went down to defeat by a 10-2 score, a score favoring Stanford by 6 to 2. The second game, which was played on Santa Clara's diamond, ended with a disastrous score of 12 to 3, the home team having the largest end of the runs. The two teams met in a third game on the Stanford field, and played before a handful of spectators. The Cardinal lost the game, as well as the series, by the final result of this game, which favored Santa Clara by a 3-2 final tally.

CROWE, MAILLOT, THOMPSON, KALLAM AND RATNER

During the first scrimmage with the Missionites the wearers of the "S" played in the best of form that they had displayed thus far on the local diamond. Santa Clara was forced to use two men on the mound, the Cardinal men making three runs off each heaver. Crowe and Ratner each knocked out a three bagger, while Parker got a home run off Berg, the Mission school left-handed pitcher. Draper was pitching in his best form for Stanford and only allowed the visitors a total of five lone hits, which were scattered evenly over the innings.

The second match of the series proved to be a walkaway for the Santa Clarans. Coach Evans was forced to use four of his pitching staff. Newland relieved Pelouze in the third inning, while he was taken out in the seventh and Briggs substituted. In the eighth Neer went into the game to twirl instead of Briggs. The opposing nine seemed able to knock the Stanford pitchers around the field at will. Hanneberg and Manelli of Santa Clara and Davies of Stanford were credited with home runs during this game.

The third and decisive game of the series was played on the local diamond and resulted in a pitchers' battle. Berg, the Santa Clara port-sider, and Draper, Stanford's curve artist, were allowed to rest their arms a week for the final game. Schall made Santa Clara's first tally in the fifth, which was followed by another in the sixth, credited to Garcia. Stanford tied the score in the latter half of the sixth, scoring Crowe and Ratner. Another run was added to the Missionites' score in the seventh. Santa Clara stopped a timely rally in the eighth inning which might have resulted in a Cardinal win. With Crowe on third and Ratner on second, a squeeze play was tried. Crowe tried to steal home while Kallam was to bunt the ball, but Kallam failed in his attempted bunt and Crowe was put out by the catcher. Stanford nearly rallied again in the ninth, but Berg's consistent pitching won the game for Santa Clara.

The following was received just as the QUAD went to press: Stanford lost the Pacific Coast Conference championship when Washington defeated the Cardinal on the "farm" diamond. Score, 5-1.

Although defeated by California in two straight games, the Cardinal's victories of the northern trip made them a close contender for the Pacific Coast pennant.

California Series

CALIFORNIA was successful in defeating the Stanford nine in two straight games, winning the 1920 baseball series. The first game ended with a final score of 5 to 1, while the second ended with a 10 to 7 result.

Newland pitched the entire nine innings of the first game, which was played at Berkeley, and with the exception of a California rally in the seventh held the Blue and Gold team. In this fatal seventh inning, Rohwer, the U. C. Captain, walked. He reached third on Rowe's two-bagger. Makin, the next batter, was thrown out at first. A deep single by Dexter scored Rohwer and Rowe, and a two-base hit by White brought Dexter home. An error by the Stanford third baseman allowed White to make the fourth run of the inning. Rohwer knocked a homer in the fourth inning.

The Cardinal players gave their pitcher unusually strong support during the entire game, only two errors being scored against the team. Ellison's style of ball, however, seemed too much for the Cardinal batters. He struck out nine Stanford men, while Newland only put three away. Ellison allowed only five scattered hits to be made off his pitching. Several times the players from the farm had the Blue and Gold twirler in the hole, but he failed to blow up this year, as he did in last season's series. He was always able to find a way out of his difficulties.

Stanford's chance came in the ninth inning, when an error by the California short-stop allowed Kallam to reach first. Kallam was forced out when Kline reached first. Wayland fanned. Ratner knocked a 3-bagger over the left fielder's head, scoring Kline. Crowe, as a pinch hitter, went to bat instead of Thompson, but was retired by Ellison. Stanford was farther from being successful in the second match than the first, even though it was played on the local field. The game started in favor of the home team, but the end was far from a Cardinal victory.

Works of California popped a two-bagger into right field, and reached home on a single by Rohwer. Draper then retired the side.

The Stanford lead-off men knocked McHenry out of the California box. He walked Mitchell, Stanford's first batter, who scored on a three-bagger by Kline. Ratner was also walked, and reached second when Wayland waited for four balls. Ratner stole third and ran home on a single by Thompson. Ellison, taking the pitching position for McHenry, soon ended the inning.

Another rally was made by the Cardinal men in the sixth inning when they scored four men. Ratner and Wayland both singled. An error by the third baseman allowed Ratner to cross the home plate while Thompson was reaching first. Crowe retired on a high foul to the California first baseman. Bundy singled bringing in Wayland and Thompson, reaching home himself on Briggs' single. Stanford's batters remained stationary during all the other parts of the game, with the exception of a single by Crowe in the fourth, but Ellison's tight pitching held the Stanford player on base until the side died.

California made one run off Draper in the first inning, and another in the third. During the fourth inning two errors blew up the Stanford players and four Blue and Gold players crossed the home plate.

Crowe caught a foul knocked by the first California batter. Ellison singled, and Makin made second on an error.

Toomey was walked and White bingled for a single, allowing Ellison to score. Meyers hit a long fly to deep center, and although caught, Makin added another point to the total number of runs. Toomey and White both reached the home slab when Works singled. The next batter retired the side by getting thrown out at first.

Another series of runs was started in the fifth inning and Newland was placed in the box to substitute for Draper. However, Newland failed to stop the rotation of runners around the bases, California adding another four runs to their total that inning. Briggs started in the mound for Stanford in the sixth and held the California score at ten runs until the end of the game.

DRAPER, STAR CARDINAL TWIRLER,
WEIGHING OUT THE BATS

The work of the pitchers or the players is not to be criticized, because they gave all they had to offer and played a good losing game from start to finish. It was generally conceded that California had the better baseball team and a U. C. victory was predicted, so all that can be said is the fact that the Cardinal nine played the best possible game. During the entire season the men seemed to have good days and bad days. Sometimes the team would play airtight ball, and at other times the entire squad would play in hard luck.

With only two vacancies on the nine to be filled for the 1921 Varsity, Stanford's baseball outlook is unusually bright. Under the able guidance of Captain-elect Bundy great things will be expected of the baseball men next year.

Crowe's consistent stick work throughout the entire series is noteworthy. He could always be counted on for a hit in a pinch, and in one Conference game he was credited with four hits out of four times at bat.

The 1921 Varsity has hopes of coping both the California series and P. C. C. championship next year.

Northern Trip

THE Cardinal nine showed up in excellent form on the trip to Oregon, coming back to the campus with four victories and two defeats. The University of Oregon and the Willamette College nines were easily beaten by the Stanford ball club. Coach Evans's men were defeated in both of the games with the Oregon Agricultural College team. Early in the season Stanford was the winner of two games from the O. A. C. aggregation on the local diamond.

The first opponent for the Stanford nine was the Oregon team, which lost their matches by 11-7 and 6-5 scores. Newland and Ratner, Draper and Ratner, were the two batteries used in this first two-game series.

Sam Briggs pitched the Varsity to victory in one of the games against the Willamette College squad. The score of this game totaled 9-5. Evans sprung a surprise by pitching Maillot in the second game with Willamette, who heaved a winning 7-1 contest. During the season Maillot has been playing on the infield, and made his first pitching attempt against this team at Salem, Oregon.

The O. A. C. nine staged a fast comeback for the Stanford players, who were defeated with final tallies of 6-1 and 5-4. In these last two games of the northern trip the Cardinal squad was worn out, having played every afternoon of the week, and were unable to give the Agricultural team the strong style of game that the Stanford men are capable of playing. On this trip through the Northwest Coach Evans's men exhibited the best form of baseball that they have displayed thus far.

On May 13 and 14 the University of Washington nine played the Stanford men in the final lap of the Pacific Coast Conference baseball championship. Stanford lost this deciding game by a 5-1 score.

Freshman Baseball

CALIFORNIA won the Freshman baseball series when the Bruin cubs defeated the Cardinal babes in two straight games.

Stanford won all the preliminary contests and appeared to have a winning aggregation. Palo Alto High was an easy victim to the first-year team, and San Jose likewise fell before the onslaught of Coach Evans' proteges.

The Oakland Chamber of Commerce and the Bank of Italy sent nines here to meet the Freshmen, but were forced to return home defeated.

From all showings made thus far, the babes looked to have more than an even chance with their rivals from across the bay.

However, the faculty axe descended and eliminated some of the Freshman players. Gray, the best bet of the pitching staff, and outfielder Welsh were placed on the ineligible list, and Stanford's hope for the series received a setback.

The first game with California was played on the Stanford diamond, April 5. Ten innings were required, California finally winning when R. Green misjudged Hermle's long fly to center, allowing the California man to circle the bases.

Rogers pitched a good game for the babes, but his support weakened in the pinches. California scored first in the second, when hits by Muller, Canfield, Thompson, and an error by Peavy, counted two runs.

Stanford tied the score in the last of this inning when C. Green and Patterson crossed the plate. Four more tallies were added to the babes' score in the fifth. Hawkins walked, took second on Rogers' hit, and scored on a single to right by Peavy. Hecken-dorf chased Rogers and Peavy in with a long home run drive to left center.

CALIFORNIA FRESHMAN MAKES SUCCESSFUL SLIDE AT SECOND

California counted three more in the sixth on three hits and an error. While O'Neill was holding the babes hitless, "Brick" Muller tied the score in the eighth by clouting a circuit smash to center.

After California scored in the tenth, Stanford essayed a comeback in its half of the inning. George Green singled, stole second and third, and was nabbed when he tried to steal home.

Muller was the outstanding star of the game, garnering four hits out of five trips to the plate, besides fielding a perfect game.

The second game of the series was played at Berkeley, April 10, and resulted in a virtual landslide for the California men.

The Bruins started the game by making three runs in the first inning, and added four more in the second. This was sufficient until the seventh, when they annexed five more.

O'Neill held the Cardinal team to three scattered hits and was never in danger of being scored on.

Schwartz weakened at times, but received little help from his teammates. Eight errors were committed by the babes, while the Californians stole bases almost at will.

Some good material was brought to light in the California series, and next year's Varsity nine will be benefited by such men as Peavy, Heckendorf, C. Green and G. Green. Not only their consistent batting throughout the series, but the way they handled the ball on the field was a credit to the team, and the deciding features in the pre-season victories.

The California Freshmen had the advantage of an early preliminary season, but they deserve the credit of the series simply because they had better teamwork and faster players.

BRUIN FIRST BASEMAN GRABS WILD THROW

Preliminary Season

STARTING out the track season with the smallest squad in the history of track athletics at Stanford, and with a small number of stars, and forced to go up against the best balanced track team that California has had in ten years, the 1920 track season was a record of steady but uphill fight.

H. Wilfred Maloney, who had trained many Stanford teams in the past, and who won considerable fame in the athletic world by coaching the American track team to victory in the Inter-Allied meet in Paris, was appointed coach of the track team with "Dad" Moulton assistant. "Jess" Wells, '20, as captain of the Varsity, aided the coaches to the best of his ability to turn out a winning team.

Various informal meets at the start of the season showed Maloney his weakness—a lack of second and third place men. He had an enviable collection of stars, particularly in the track events, as his main hope. Morris Kirksey, who had a record of 0:9 4-5 in the hundred, returned to college and was eligible, which gave Maloney three first-class short distance men: Kirksey, Captain Wells and Lilly. Wells won the event last year and Lilly the year before. Scofield, winner of second place in the 440-yard dash, returned and Gene Davis, winner of both hurdle races in 1918, returned to furnish a fast teammate for Wells in both the low and high hurdles. In the mile Haskell, a transfer from California, showed early in the season that he had ability, and Maloney was confident that he would place in the big meet. "Addie" Westwick, veteran two-miler, was on hand to help out in the track events.

In the field events, Templeton and Green were the only old men who were eligible. Wilcox, winner of the pole vault in 1917, returned to college, which gave Stanford two pole vaulters able to make over twelve feet. In the high jump, Weaver, Heath, and Green soon demonstrated that they could make over six feet, and, together with Templeton, Maloney found that he had four high jumpers hard to beat. But with these events the Cardinal prospects in the field stopped. Caughey's absence in the shot-put left Stanford without a weight man of ability, and the early season dope gave both the discus and javelin to the Blue and Gold. However, just before the California meet Gillespie and Hanner suddenly found their form in the discus and javelin, which forced the dopers to concede Stanford these events.

In the annual Irish Marathon in which all the classes entered relay teams the Senior team finished first, the Freshmen second, the Juniors third, and the Sophomores last. Each team consisted of twenty-five men

Captain-elect Morris M. Kirksey

Stanford looks forward with confidence to next year's season, for with such a skipper at the helm his leadership, popularity, and knowledge of the game will do much to develop a team that will carry the Cardinal to victory.

His records for the season, 0:9 4-5 in the 100, and 21 2-5 in the 220, prove him to be the greatest sprinter that ever donned the Cardinal.

STANFORD VS REDLANDS-POMONA RELAY TEAM

During spring vacation the Varsity took a trip south and met both the University of Southern California and Redlands-Pomona teams. The Trojans were defeated by the score of 61-52 and the Redlands-Pomona combination by the count of 72-49. Morris Kirksey negotiated the century in 0:9 4-5 in the Redlands meet, and tied the intercollegiate record in the 220 by doing 0:21 3-5.

Captain "Jess" Wells was a big point winner in the U. S. C. meet, but failed to perform up to standard against Redlands and Pomona.

Scofield finished second to Kilby, the Redlands star, in the quarter, and Haskell and Westwick, the Cardinal distance men, ran away with the honors in their events. Green and Wilcox kept up their pace in the pole vault and Templeton, Heath, and Weaver were never out-jumped in the high jump. Templeton cleaned up on the broad jump while Green and Gillespie figured for points in the discus.

THE FINISH OF THE 220-YARD RACE—PADDOCK AGAIN WINS FROM STANFORD STAR

The return meet with the University of Southern California was held at the beginning of the spring quarter, and Coach Maloney's men celebrated their return from the southern part of the State by defeating the Trojans 77 to 45. In the feature races of the day Charles Paddock of U. S. C. managed to win both the 100 and 220 yard dashes from Kirksey. His time in the 100-yard dash was 10 flat, while he negotiated the 220 in 21 3-5. The two men were an even match, and it was only in the last twenty yards that Paddock jumped ahead of Kirksey.

The other Stanford point winners were: Haskell, Hayes, Scofield, Hertel, Wells, Westwick, Eddleman, Radcliffe, Wilkie, Davis, King, Adams, Hanner, Gillespie, Green, Templeton, Heath, Wilcox, and Dewing.

At the time the QUAD goes to press there are still four track events in which Stanford will take part. The meet with the Olympic Club is scheduled for May 1, and on May 8 the Oregon Aggies will bring a team to the Stanford campus. On May 15 the biggest and most important track competition in the West will take place on the Stanford oval when the Pacific Coast Conference meet will be held. Coach Maloney plans to enter his best team in an effort to win the meet.

Before going to press it was learned that California won the meet, Stanford second. The relay was the deciding race.

In order to retain her membership in the I. C. A. A. A. A., Stanford will have to send a team east this year to compete in the annual meet, which will be held at Princeton. Coach Maloney will send Templeton, Kirksey and Wells.

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA INTERSCHOLASTIC MEET.

The championship of the northern section of the Northern California Interscholastic Federation went to the Palo Alto High School this year, when the annual meet of the northern high school was held in the Stanford oval on April 10. Palo Alto won over San Jose and Berkeley, the nearest competitors, by a comfortable margin.

TRAINER "DAD" MOULTON

Stanford-California Meet

STANFORD failed to "make it eight straight" from the University of California in the annual track meet held in Berkeley oval on April 17, and the Cardinal Varsity lost to the Blue and Gold by the count of 70 to 61. As Coach Maloney had figured the meet hinged on the relay, and he had placed all of his hopes on his best possible combination, Wells, Hertel, Scofield, and Kirksey. Wells and Kirksey, although sprinters, ran great races in their quarter-mile laps, but were not fast enough to head Walter Christie's team.

Coach Maloney was forced to rely on a team composed of nearly all stars in the big meet and there was a noticeable lack of second and third place men, a failing which cost Stanford the meet. However, with the additional material from this year's Freshman team, and from the much larger squad which it is expected will turn out next year, Coach Maloney has high hopes of seeing Stanford break into the victory column again next season.

Morris Kirksey and Captain Jess Wells were the individual stars for Stanford in the California meet, and Johnny Merchant starred for California with 14 points. Kirksey won the 100-yard dash and the 220-yard dash with ease and placed second in the discus throw. His time of 21 2-5 in the 220-yard dash broke the California-Stanford record of 21 3-5 formerly held by "Feg" Murray of Stanford. Captain Wells came through almost as well as he did last year, tying for first against Grunsky in the high hurdles and winning the low hurdles in 24 1-5, tying the Conference record. Wells upset the dope, tying Grunsky in the high hurdles, as the Blue and Gold star was figured to have the edge.

Haskell failed to place in the mile, which was a blow to the Stanford dopesters, but Eddleman and Adams partially made up the points lost by taking third place in the 2-mile and shot put events, respectively. True to dope, Stanford took all places in the high jump, Templeton clearing the bar at 6 feet 4 inches. He also placed second to Johnny Merchant in the broad jump.

Stanford secured revenge for the Bruin's clean sweep of the mile and half mile, taking all the points in the discus. Gillespie of Stanford threw the discus for a new Stanford-California record of 123 feet 11 inches. In the javelin, Hanner beat Merchant in a record throw of 165 feet 9 inches. Captain Peterson of California tied Norman Green for first place in the pole vault, the difference in the take-off at Berkeley apparently bothering the Stanford man, who has cleared six or seven inches higher consistently at Stanford than the 12 feet 1 inch mark at which they tied. Art Wilcox, the other Stanford entry, after clearing 12 feet and when attempting to make the next mark, fell and injured his ankle so that he was unable to compete any further and had to be carried from the field.

favor of California, the relay runners took their places with Captain Jess Wells running the first lap for Stanford and McDonald for California. Wells led for the first 220 yards, but gradually fell back during the last and finished almost ten yards back of the Blue and Gold runner. The hurdles had apparently tired the Cardinal captain, and in addition to the fact that he is not a quarter-miler but was running because it was a necessity. It was too much for the nervy Stanford man and he did well to finish. Hertel, Scofield and Kirksey all made strenuous efforts to cut down the California lead but were unable to do so, with the result that California captured the meet.

Coach Harry Maloney and his assistant, "Dad" Moulton, deserve considerable praise for the showing that the small Stanford team made. Despite the predictions of the dopesters Maloney's team was a contestant for first place honors every minute during the meet, and it was only skillful handling of his men that made this possible.

Freshman Track

COMING closer to winning the California-Stanford Freshman track meet than any other team before, the 1923 men completed a successful preliminary season and fought their up-bay opponents all the way in the big event of the year.

The Freshmen had no competition to speak of during the early season and defeated such high schools as Berkeley, San Jose, Oakland, Palo Alto, Mountain View, Hollister, Oakland Technical, John C. Fremont, San Francisco Polytechnic, Lick-Wilmerding, and the University High of Oakland, by decidedly one-sided scores. Coach Acker was seriously handicapped in turning out a winning team by the loss of six sure point winners who went on probation preceding the California meet. Notwithstanding these losses the available material was well developed and established times and marks that compared favorably with those of the Varsity.

In the California meet the Stanford men had a decided edge on their rivals in the track events, taking every first but the 100 and 880, but the superiority of the Berkeley field men won the day by the score of 77 to 54. The Stanford "frosh" were only allowed ten points in the field and were shut out entirely in the javelin and broad jump.

Stanford won the first three events, the mile, the quarter, and the high hurdles, and for the moment prospects were bright for a Cardinal victory but the later events changed the results. Elliott of Stanford broke the tape in the mile and the two mile, running a beautiful race in both. Cole of California won the century with only a few inches separating him from his team-mate, Van Sant, and Forster of Stanford, but in the furlong the order was reversed and Forster took first. Rice and Falk alternated for first and third places in the high and low hurdles, respectively. Williamson walked away in the 440 and finished yards ahead of his closest competitor. One of the gamest races of the day was the 880 in which Thompson was barely edged out of the first place by Kitts of California after a neck and neck sprint for the last fifty yards. Norris of California established a new Freshman record in the pole vault when he cleared the bar at 12 feet 13 $\frac{1}{4}$ inches. Interest also centered in the high jump between Howell of Stanford and Miller of California. When the bar was at 6 feet 2 $\frac{1}{4}$ inches it looked as though Howell was going to win as he cleared the stick on his first jump while Muller missed the first two attempts but got over on the third. At 6 feet 2 $\frac{3}{4}$ inches Muller cleared the bar on his first jump, but Howell was unable to make it, thus giving California first place in the event. The other field men to take points were Wheelan, who took second in the pole vault, Rice and Sampson second and third in the discus, and Howell third in the shot.

E. E. Elliott was the outstanding star of the Freshman team. In the California meet Elliott broke the Freshman mile record, then came back in the two mile and passed every man in the race in the last lap. This necessitated the overcoming of a seventy-yard lead. Many former track men who have seen Elliott run have likened his slow, easy, never tiring stride to that of L. L. Chapman, '18. Elliott is looked upon as a probable defeater of Sprout in the Big Meet next year.

The Stanford relay team easily won the mile event, heading California all the way. The results follow:

Mile—Elliott (S), first; West (C), second; Kirby (C), third. Time, 4:37 4-5.

440 yards—Williamson (S), first; Wright (S), second; Whiteside (C), third. Time, 52 1-5.

120-yard high hurdles—Rice (S), first; Henry (C), second; Falk (S), third. Time, 0:16.

100-yard dash—Cole (C), first; Van Sant (C), second; Forster (S), third. Time, 0:10 1-5.

Two miles—Elliott (S), first; Turner (C), second; Peckham (C), third. Time, 10:54.

880-yard dash—Kitts (C), first; Thompson (S), second; Williamson (S), third. Time, 2:05.

220-yard low hurdles—Falk (S), first; Henry (C), second; Rice (S), third. Time, 0:26 2-5.

Pole Vault—Norris (C), first; Wheelan (S), second; Durgin (C), third. Height, 12 feet 13¼ inches.

High Jump—Muller (C), first; Howell (S), second; Dalton (C), third. Height, 6 feet 27⁄8 inches.

Broad Jump—Muller (C), first; Dalton (C), second; Meredith (C), third. Distance, 21 feet 7 inches.

Javelin Throw—Peterson (C), first; Clark (C), second; LeHane (C), third. Distance, 155 feet 7 inches.

Discus Throw—Berkey (C), first; Rice (S) second; Sampson (S), third. Distance, 117 feet 1 inch.

Relay—Won by Stanford (Wright, Thompson, Tutman, and Williamson). Time, 3:32.

Total score—California, 77; Stanford, 54.

Crew Season

FOR a time it was doubtful if crew would be continued at Stanford this year owing to the lack of funds for new equipment. However, a surplus from the football season was voted by the student body to be used for crew, and a coaching launch and other equipment were purchased. "Les" Rogers, '17, a member of the famous Poughkeepsie crew, was chosen as coach and active work started during the winter quarter with a large number of candidates.

Lack of water in Lake Lagunita prevented the early season work being done there, so Coach Rogers was forced to take his men to the bay at Redwood and do all of his training there. Captain "Cash" Davis assisted Coach Rogers in training the men.

Four veterans from last year's Varsity reported for the early season workouts. These were Captain Davis, McGillivray, Carey, and Wilbur. In addition several former second Varsity men and members of former Freshman crews turned out. Steinbeck and Jeffers were former second Varsity men and McCormack, Brown, McKinnon, Snow, Adams, Brieson and Olmstead rowed on their Freshman crews and with these men as a nucleus, Coach Rogers started out to form an eight to wipe out last year's defeat. As usual the crew men worked under difficulties this year. Coach Rogers was unable to come down except on week ends, which placed a great deal of the burden on Captain Davis. The surplus which was voted by the student body did not materialize into as large an amount as was expected and new shells could not be purchased.

Notwithstanding these handicaps, Coach Rogers's men went through the grilling training season full of enthusiasm. With the number of experienced men on hand the prospects for a successful eight seemed bright this year. Old Man Jinx visited the Stanford campus and Captain Davis was thrown out of the race by a strained wrist, and Moore, who was forced out of last year's boat by sickness, again fell victim. These losses hit the Varsity hard, but Coach Rogers, assisted by Roy King, '19, stroke of last year's boat, and who helped coach the crew during the last two weeks this season, put their strongest eight on the water against the rival oarsmen from Berkeley.

Captain-elect Brown

Harry Austin Brown, '19, elected captain of the 1920 crew on his brilliant past record and experience, is looked to as the man to lead next year's shell to victory. Brown rowed in his Freshman crew and also held a seat in 1916 Varsity shell. He rowed at No. 6 in this year's boat and pulled as long and steady a stroke as was seen on the whole estuary. His knowledge of the sport, his enthusiasm and spirited leadership will undoubtedly combine to make a victorious 1920 crew.

Captain Davis

C. S. "Cash" Davis, '20, captain of the crew, was prevented from rowing in this year's race against California by an injury to his wrist, sustained a few days before the big regatta. Davis worked hard all the season to give Stanford a victory over the Blue and Gold and did a great deal of the coaching himself. It was a big disappointment to him and a heavy blow to the Stanford hopes when he was forced out of the boat.

Coach Rogers

Coach "Les" Rogers, '17, a member of the famous Poughkeepsie crew, consented to coach the crew men this year, and he gave all of his time to develop winning crews. Although this season was not a successful one, Rogers has hopes for the 1921 crew, and plans to place the Stanford colors again in the victory column.

THE THREE CARDINAL CREWS BEFORE STARTING FOR AN AFTERNOON SPIN.

Stanford-California

ON APRIL 17, the Stanford Varsity, second Varsity and Freshman crews lined up on the Oakland Estuary against the eights representing the University of California. Instead of racing down-stream as in the previous years, the course was changed to an up-stream race, and in order to get his men used to the course Coach Rogers took them to Alameda several days ahead of the race.

The final selection of the eight men to sit in the Varsity boat was: Steinbeck, stroke; McCormack, 7; Brown, 6; McGillivray, 5; McKinnon, 4; Snow, 3; Carey, 2; Jeffers, bow, and Boucher, coxswain. The second Varsity was made up of: Olmstead, stroke; Adams, 7; Brieson, 6; Wooster, 5; Tucker, 4; Tell, 3; Smith, 2; Ells, bow, and Schnier, coxswain. The Freshman eight was: Lindstrom, stroke; Helser, 7; Richardson, 6; Loomis, 5; Mattox, 4; Rosenblum, 3; Walthers, 2; Hicks, bow, and Tuthill, coxswain.

In the main event of the regatta the Blue and Gold Varsity started out like winners from the first with the Cardinal oarsmen fighting to get the lead. Pulling a long and slow stroke which permitted the oarsmen to put their maximum amount of power in every stroke, the California men maintained their lead through the race, despite the attempt to spurt at the halfway mark by the Stanford men. The Cardinal men fought every inch of the way, but their short, fast stroke was not suited to the rough water and the pull up-stream, and the Blue and Gold finished a good two lengths ahead, winning over Stanford for the second consecutive time.

The Freshman race was the best contest of the morning. The two eights kept abreast for half of the course and then the superior stroke

Rugby

WITH the possibility of sending an all-star California Rugby fifteen to compete in the Olympiad at Antwerp this fall, the Stanford ruggers are working hard in the drive that is now holding sway on the campus, as well as throughout the State. The California Rugby Union is making an effort to secure sufficient funds to finance a squad of players from California to the seventh world's meet.

If the necessary money is raised elimination contests will be held between the men of the Olympic Club, Stanford, California, and Santa Clara. During the past two months the Union officials have been holding these elimination contests, but following the completion of the drive several more games will be played before the definite squad is announced to make the trip.

In these tryout games the committee in charge of the selection of the all-star fifteen announced various lineups of the men from the different teams. Some of the men were played on an all-American squad, and the others on an all-British. Possibly the same men would be on the opposite team the next week. This allowed the officials an opportunity to judge the individual playing of the men instead of the work of their college.

During the Christmas vacation an all-star fifteen, composed of players from the Universities of Stanford and California, invaded the Northwest, defeating several of the Canadian football teams. The trip last Christmas was so successful that Harry Maloney, who is both president of the California Rugby Union and the Stanford Rugby coach, already has an offer to send another team to Vancouver next season. It is also probable that the college players will be accompanied by an all-star California fifteen picked from the high school teams of the State.

DOE, STAR BACKFIELD MAN

Stanford played a long extended season of Rugby during the past year, starting early in November and ending in the middle of February, to compete for the Olympiad team.

California's fifteen met Stanford on two separate occasions, playing a tie game of three points on the California turf, November 22. On February 14, Stanford was the winner of a contest from the California team by a 14 to 5 score. The early season playing of the Cardinal was below par, owing to the fact that a large number of the stars of the old English game had turned to playing American football during the fall, but returned to compete against California in the second game of the season.

While Stanford was the winner of the game from the Blue and Gold, it was by no means a walkaway. The U. C. players put up a strong fight and it was only after a hard scrimmage that the Cardinal fifteen showed its supremacy over the Bay City University team. The game was marked with thrills from start to finish.

Four times during the season the Olympic and Cardinal men met on the green turf.

and four times the Olympic men were forced to return home defeated. In an early season game on November 29 the Winged "O" players lost to Stanford by a score of 30 to 5. Later in the season the teams met in a three-game series, Stanford winning by the following scores: 8-0, 16-11, and 20-11.

The most exciting and interesting Rugby matches of the year were staged when the Cardinal clashed with Australian "Anzaes," who were attending the Davis Farm College. In a game on the local field the Stanford team outclassed the Australian players, winning the contest by a final tally of 23-13. The Davis Farm men were better individual players, but failed to get the perfect teamwork that the Cardinal squad was using.

At Davis Farm the two fifteens met in a second game. The score of 6-5 in favor of the "Anzaes" indicates the nature of the contest. Both teams were using a strong defense and offense, and neither seemed to be superior to the other.

Coach Maloney is largely responsible for the strength of the Rugby team throughout the past season, and if they make the trip to Antwerp it will be done largely through his untiring efforts.

If the present drive for funds is a success it is probable that Stanford will have the largest representation on the squad due to the amount of good Rugby material wearing the Cardinal colors. Besides entering the team in the competition at the Olympiad, arrangements will also be made to have an extended schedule of games throughout England and Scotland. Offers have already been sent to Maloney asking him to have the University men of the United States match against the University men of Great Britain. A drive for $2,000 on the "Farm" to send the team overseas is meeting with success. According to the clock at the law steps, which records the donations, the sum received to date is $1,400. Martinsen is managing the campaign.

Soccer

Soccer laurels for the 1919-1920 season went to California by a narrow margin of one point after Stanford had built up a total of 23 points. The Cardinal made a very excellent showing for the year, winning six and playing two draw games out of a total of ten games played. Of the two games lost, one went to California and the other to the Olympic Club, both of which teams were defeated at different times during the season. The schedule and results of the "University and Club" League were as follows:

CAPT.-ELECT NEWLAND

In the California games the lineup was: S. Pillsbury, OL; J. Strauss, IL; G. Clark, C; W. Shiels, IR; T. Green, OR; W. Gorman, LHB; J. Robinson, CHB; W. Stamp, RHB; W. Adams, LHB; M. Mendonca, RB; H. Newland, G. Newland, Robinson, and Adams starred in these games by displaying active and clever foot work.

Harry W. Maloney and James Quinby coached the team during the season, to whom much credit for the successful season is attributed.

In the Freshman game, the Cardinal also lost to Berkeley by a score of 0-2. The lineup was: T. G. Greene, C. Bowes, J. O. Hayes, R. Boyd, B. W. Wyatt, J. Patten, C. E. Peavey, L. C. Davis, C. L. Taff, R. D. Richardson, J. L. Hanifan, B. W. Gause, T. Walther.

In the California games the Cardinal made an excellent showing although going down to defeat in both contests with the Berkeley team. The first setback to Stanford by any members of the league was that by the Bruins on November 22, and the results of this game were attributed to the confidence which Stanford had acquired from previous victories. In the second game with California the Cardinal entered the game determined to win but were forced to concede the contest to their rivals.

Perhaps the fastest game of the season was that with the Chinese Y. M. C. A. Although small and comparatively light in weight, the speed and accuracy with which the Chinese handled the ball kept the Stanford team on its toes throughout the contest.

The hardest fought games were with the Olympic Club team. Captain Pillsbury, Newland and Stamp were conspicuous in these games for their fast work.

Boxing

STANFORD lost six out of the seven bouts in the boxing match with California on the eleventh of March. Craig Rothwell, '23, won the only Cardinal victory by taking the decision from Brennan of California in the 125-pound class. The fight was close throughout and the judges were unable to reach a decision at the end of the three-round match, necessitating another round. Most of the matches were close, three of them requiring an extra round before the decisions could be rendered.

Jerrey Hurley, '19, for two years the intercollegiate champion, lost to Wheeler in the 135-pound division. The men fought even for three rounds, but the Blue and Gold man's whirlwind work in the extra round gained him the decision.

The only unpopular decision of the evening was the stopping of the 158-pound fight in the first round. Cline of California had Mark Evans dazed, but there was only ten seconds to go before the end of the round when the referee stopped the fight. Most of those present felt that Evans should have been allowed to finish the round and see if he could come back for the second.

Summary of the matches:

115 pounds—Zertuche (S) lost to Tehan (C), extra round.

125 pounds—Rothwell (S) won from Brennan (C), extra round.

135 pounds—Hurley (S) lost to Wheeler (C), extra round.

145 pounds—Stewart (S) lost to Theis (C).

158 pounds—Evans (S) lost to Cline (C), one round.

175 pounds—Van C'lief (S) lost to Huntington (C).

Heavyweight Cox (S) lost to Skinner (C), two rounds.

COACH MURPHY

Lane	Van Clief	Murphy	Cox	Hurley	Evans	Rothwell	Ross
		Zertuche		Hodges		Hensold

Referee, George Green, Olympic Club coach.

The only other match of the year was held with the University of Southern California. This resulted in an even break, each team winning two of the matches. It had been planned to have five fights, but Hodges, the Cardinal bantamweight, was unable to make weight. Fitzpatrick of U. S. C. agreed to fight on the condition that it should not be counted in the results. Hodges knocked his lighter opponent out in the first round. Murphy and Ross won their matches, Ross defeating the former national amateur champion in the featherweight class. Lane and Hensold lost their matches to the U. S. C. men.

One of the biggest developments in boxing this year was the change from a second-class minor sport to a first-class minor. This means that every man who competes against California will receive a Circle S. Before only the winners received the award.

Wrestling

THE wrestling season this year has been one of varied success and defeat. At the beginning of the season everything pointed toward a completely victorious Stanford squad. Most of last year's men were back and a large number of new men came out for the team. Soon several of the best men fell into the class of ineligible and for a while it looked almost impossible for Coach McCullough to put out a team of any strength. The men left on the squad trained hard and consistently and several new men were developed to take the place of those on probation.

The only real outside competition before the California meet resulted almost in a complete victory for the Cardinal grapplers over the team from the San Francisco Y. M. C. A. The only match that the San Francisco team was able to win was in the 145-pound class. All of the other matches were won on falls by Stanford. In a special exhibition match the same evening, J. F. Miller, '23, met Ardouin, the Pacific Coast amateur champion. Miller weighed in at 165 and Ardouin at 212. Despite the tremendous advantage of forty pounds weight and many more years' experience, it took Ardouin ten minutes of hard wrestling to pin the Stanford man's shoulders to the mat.

In the meet with California the Cardinal Varsity lost three out of the five matches, thereby losing the meet. A. C. Erickson, '21, secured a fall from his California opponent in seven minutes and thirty-five seconds in the 145-pound class. H. E. Egami, '20, secured the decision in the 125-pound class. C. C. Bunds, '21, B. C. Jones, '21, and A. Brazil, '22, lost their matches to the Blue and Gold opponents.

The Freshman meet was a reversal of the Varsity. Stanford won the meet by taking three out of the five matches. J. F. Miller, 175 pounds, won a fall from the Blue and Gold heavyweight in two minutes and thirty-five seconds. C. S. Franklin, 158 pounds, secured his fall in seven minutes. V. M. Hosepian, 125 pounds, pinned his opponent's shoulders to the mat in three minutes and twenty seconds. The other two matches went to California men.

Coach McCullough took over the work of training the men when the squad was apparently shot to pieces but with hard work and the perfect support of his men he managed to rebuild a very creditable squad. Some credit is due Coach Jones, last year's coach, for his work with the men in the fall quarter.

Besides the meets actually participated in, the wrestling team also gave several exhibitions at smokers on the campus and appeared before the people of Palo Alto several times under the auspices of the American Legion and the Community House.

The new open-air wrestling mats constructed in the area back of the gymnasium have aided materially in the development of our successful teams.

Swimming and Polo

SWIMMING proved to be Stanford's most successful minor sport during the past season. Both the Varsity and Freshman squads defeated their Blue and Gold opponents, besides making a fair showing against a number of the aquatic clubs around the bay and Southern California.

The Olympic mermen met the Cardinal Varsity on November 22, before Coach Brandsten was able to develop a strong early-season squad. The Winged "O" men won the meet with a final score of 35 to 22.

During the spring vacation the Stanford swimmers met the Los Angeles Athletic Club and the San Diego Rowing Club. Although the swimming team from the "farm" was beaten by both athletic clubs, several of the races brought out the exceptional qualities of the Stanford water artists. Drake, '22, defeated Jack Kilburn in the 100-yard dash in the meet against the L. A. A. C. Kilburn is the present Pacific Coast champion in the dashes. Drake also defeated Rawlins in the meet with the San Diego Rowing Club. Rawlins was the Pacific Coast champion in the 50- and 100-yard dashes in 1917.

CAPTAIN MILLS

Pinkston, '22, took first place in the diving events at both places. He defeated Priest in Los Angeles, who is the present Pacific Coast diving champion.

On April 17 the Varsity swimming team met the University of California squad in the Olympic Club pool and won from the Bruins by a score of 56 to 22. Captain Mills and Captain-elect Drake of Stanford were the high point winners of the contest, each making a total of ten points, besides swimming on the relay team and playing in the polo game which followed.

Four new Stanford-California intercollegiate records were made in this Varsity meet. Drake established new time for both the 50- and 100-yard dashes, making :26 1-5 and 1:01 3-5 respectively in these events. The Stanford relay team, composed of Drake, Mills, Austin and Dickey, lowered the intercollegiate relay time to 1:07 3-5. Nauman was the only Californian to break a record, taking it in 1:22.

Too much credit cannot be given Brandsten for his effective coaching in swimming. When men are entered for Stanford in a meet their coaching stands out predominant. The Cardinal instructor was once the champion diver of the world, and many of his good points can be seen as they are developed in the tank artists under his guidance.

The Freshmen were even more successful than the varsity mermen in their season. With the exception of water polo they stand with a clean record of no defeats. In the preliminary season they were matched against the swimmers of the Berkeley and Lowell high schools.

On March 6, Lowell was the loser of a fast meet in the Encina pool, the Stanford Babes winning by a score of 32-27. On March 20 another victory was chalked up for the first-year team, when the Berkeley High team met defeat. The final tally of this meet stood 57 to 20.

California's Freshmen were defeated by the opposing Cardinal squad, losing by a 46 to 32 margin. Four Freshmen swimming records were broken in this competitive match. Austin of Stanford made the 100-yard dash in 1:06 2-5, while DeGroot cut the time of the 100-yard back stroke to 1:19 3-5. Julien, also of Stanford, swam the 100-yd. breast stroke in 1:23. McElroy was the only California swimmer to reduce a record, bringing the 220-yard dash time down to 2:58.

As the final score will indicate the meet was close from start to finish, neither side having any decided advantage. The Cardinal men made a spurt in the last few events and won by a fair margin. The Varsity water polo players were also successful in their match against the University of California. On the same night as the swimming contest the Stanford Varsity poloists defeated the Blue and Gold representatives by a score of 14 to 2. The game was fast and exciting, but decidedly one-sided. The keen work of Captain Mills, Drake and Strauss made the Cardinal walkaway possible.

Stanford Babes failed to win over their rival classmates from the bay city university. The Bruin cubs were the winners of their match by a one-point margin, the final score being 7 to 6. The Freshman game was more evenly matched than the contest between the two Varsity teams, and afforded the spectators a much more interesting scrimmage. Austin and Mattox were the individual stars for the first year Cardinal men. In interclass polo competition, the Sophomores proved to have the most evenly balanced squad by defeating the teams of the other three classes.

The interclass swimming first honors, however, went to the Juniors with the Freshmen fighting them with a close second. The different classes failed to show the usual amount of enthusiasm for this annual meet, due to the diverted attention caused by football and the early training for the spring sports. However, the swimmers made up in quality what was lacking in quantity. Unofficial reports claim several of the tank records to be broken.

Fraternity men will have their annual meet in the latter part of May, when the baseball and trackmen are through their season. For the past three years the Chi Psi team has held possession of a permanent trophy that is presented the winner each year.

Drake, who will captain next year's varsity swimming squad, is said to be one of the fastest water sprinters on the Pacific Coast. With Drake and this year's captain, Mills, on the 1920-21 team, along with a number of the present personnel of the squad, prospects are already bright for another Cardinal victory over the swimmers wearing the Blue and Gold colors.

Tennis

STANFORD lost six out of seven matches in the annual tournament against the University of California, but retrieved its tennis standing by making a clean sweep of the Ojai Valley Classic on the following week. Besides defeating the representatives of the Blue and Gold in the Ojai Tourney, the Cardinal racket wielders won over players from the University of Southern California, Pomona, Throop, and Occidental Colleges and a large number of Pacific Coast stars that entered the open single matches.

J. M. Davies, '22, won the intercollegiate singles, defeating Bates of California in the finals. P. F. Neer, '22, was the winner of the open singles. He defeated Morgan Fotrell of the California Athletic Club in the semi-finals, and Clarence Barker, a well-known tennis star of southern California, in the finals. Davis and Neer won the intercollegiate doubles from the tennis men of the five opposing colleges. Bates and Levy, the University of California crack double players, were beaten by the Cardinal duo. During the coming summer vacation the Blue and Gold players will tour the Eastern states, and are entered in several large tournaments, including the National Intercollegiate meet at Philadelphia.

At U. C., as well as at the other four colleges entered in the Ojai Tourney, tennis is one of the major intercollegiate sports, while Stanford still retains it as a minor activity. This factor places the players on the "farm" at a serious disadvantage with the other schools of the coast, because of the lack of interest in minor athletics.

A total of eight trophies was brought back to the campus by the Cardinal racket artists. The cup won by Neer in the open singles has been held by such stars as Johnson, McLaughlin and Davis. This year is the first time the cup has student. Lack of practice and training, fallen into the possession of a Stanford caused by the larger interest in the major sports, cost Stanford defeat from the Bruins.

The California Club of San Francisco was the winter of the inter-club cup. Stanford rated fourth place in the league.

As a result of the practice obtained in this way, the Stanford players were able to make a clean sweep of the Ojai Valley tournament. Davies won the intercollegiate singles championship for the State. Neer won the State open singles championship.

Intra Mural Athletics

Commencing with the new year, a radical change was introduced at Stanford in connection with group and class athletics. Under the direction of Dr. A. D. Browne, Medical Adviser at the University, the local societies and fraternities were organized into competing sections, from which by a process of elimination, certain living groups emerged as winners of athletic contests in basketball and baseball at the end of the season.

The plan followed was the pyramid method of grouping teams, by which all entries were classified according to whether they were fraternity, club, military or class in character. By competition the sections were narrowed to a few contestants, and following the elimination of all candidate teams in a section, winners of the sections competed. In this way there gradually emerged from the great number of teams at the bottom of the pyramid a few which were by reason of their ability the winners, and who occupied the vertex of the pyramid.

As stated at the time of organization of Intra Mural Athletics, as this plan is called, the purpose is to provide competitive athletics for men who are unable to make a varsity team, and to develop talent or prospects in athletics from which the varsity men can be selected. The results are thus advantageous to the men themselves and to the University as a whole, inasmuch as many varsity men develop as a result of the intra mural competition.

Early in January, Dr. Browne called a meeting of representatives of the various living groups and fraternities on the Campus with the idea of putting the proposition before them. The result was that a committee was formed to arrange the sections or leagues, as they were called. Five leagues were provided for and a total of forty teams entered. Each league champion team was to receive a trophy, and the championship of the University determined by competition of the champions of the five leagues. A set of rules was also drawn up by the committee at the time and a schedule arranged. Leagues were determined by drawing and the round-robin plan followed in playing games.

The sports to which this plan has been applied have been basketball and baseball. Such satisfactory results were obtained that track will be included in the Intra Mural Athletic program for 1920-21, and it is planned to extend the field so that it will eventually include all sports now in vogue at Stanford.

Intramural Basket-Ball

BASKETBALL started the schedule of intramural athletics this year. During the first of the schedule the playing was poor and uninteresting, but many strong quintets and individual players were soon developed, and a number of interesting and hotly contested games were played. In the semi-finals, played by the league winners, some good exhibitions of basketball were put up. The Encina West Second Floor was declared the championship team of the Campus only after a hard fight with the other league winners.

An all-star team was picked by Coach Evans from the teams playing in the finals.

The standing of the teams follows:

STANDING OF THE LEAGUE WINNERS

Team—	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Encina West Second Floor.....	5	1	.833
El Camino	4	1	.800
Delta Upsilon	2	2	.500
Delta Kappa Epsilon	2	2	.500
Chi Psi	0	4	.000

Intramural Baseball

The intramural teams are now playing off their schedules of baseball. As only six weeks of the schedule have now been played the teams have not been able as yet to hit their stride, so that a possible winner cannot be named. Due to the large number of men playing the game, some good material will probably develop for use in the varsity next year.

Several diamonds are kept in full sway every afternoon, and from the interest taken in the sport and the keen rivalry between clubs and fraternities the baseball intramural series seem to have won a permanent place among Stanford athletic schedules.

The Stanford Pageant

THE most ambitious theatrical venture ever attempted at Stanford was the pageant, Service—The Story of a Great University, presented by the English Club during the Commencement of 1919. On the night of June 14, a cast of four hundred people selected from students, faculty, and members of the Palo Alto community, portrayed the history of Stanford through the days of the Indians, the Spaniards, the mysterious Frenchman, Peter Coutts, and the Stanford family. By the means of an unusual system of lighting effects the Track Oval was transformed into a natural stage of wonderful scenic possibilities for pageantry.

Words alone cannot convey any conception of the amount of detail that a careful and representative historical pageant of Stanford entailed. The success of the English Club in writing, staging, costuming, not to forget financing and managing, this production was necessarily only a little short of the miraculous. Service marked the arrival of the community drama at Stanford, due to the English Club's initiative.

A COMIC BIT IN Nothing But the Truth

"Nothing But the Truth"

JAMES MONTGOMERY's clever farce successfully closed the 1918-1919 season as the 1919 Senior Farce at the beginning of Senior Week. From the minute that the Senior Farce Committee selected Nothing But the Truth, their production was assured of a certain degree of success. But its good judgment was not limited to the selection of a vehicle by any means, and two more ingredients of a successful production of the first order were added, namely, faultless staging and an above-the-average cast.

Gordon Davis, '18, took over the coaching, found a leading man, and performed a latter-day miracle by getting a well-drilled, smoothly-working cast ready for the curtain call in spite of scholarship, faculty regulations, and final examinations. The results of this production under difficulties were surprising and gratifying considering these unfavorable conditions. Through Davis's work a typical New York show, as Nothing But the Truth is, was fitted into an admirable campus production.

Buford Williams, '16, was the eleventh-hour leading man. The production was about to be given up because there was no suitable male lead, when Williams returned to the campus from France. Before he had time to take off his uniform, he was signed up for the part that Willie Collier took in the original New York production.

He played the part of Bob Bennett who had to face the hard proposition of telling "nothing but the truth" for twenty-four hours, the plot of the farce being based on this novel theme. Williams, with an excellent sense of comedy values, carried his character successfully through a maze of difficulties to the clever denouement at the end of the twenty-four hours. Perhaps the only thing that marred his work was an unfortunate tendency to "keep his eye on the camera," in "movie" parlance. Outside of this undue attention to the audience, his acting was unimpeachable.

Miss Mona Gardner, '20, was a charming leading lady in her ingenue part. Through the force of her own personality, her part grew from the typical insipid debutante motif to a sparkling, vivacious representation of girlhood.

The best character bit in the farce was played by Ben Harris, '19, as Bishop Doran. The modern clergyman type was very well taken off by Harris and some of the lines of the Bishop brought the biggest laughs in a play full of laughs. James Boyle, '20, was characteristically good in his "straight" part of E. M. Ralston. Robert Reid, '21, successfully played the part of a crusty old highbinder of the stock market.

Miss Mary Largent, '20, was given a chorus girl part, and she handled it with admirable dash and verve.

"The First Born"

SETTING and costuming reached their high-water marks of completeness and beauty in the Sword and Sandals production of The First Born, on November 7. Presenting the witchery and charm of the old San Francisco Chinatown with the closest attention to detail, Coach Davis, '18, and his staff achieved the apotheosis of artistic realism in producing Francis Power's play.

Sword and Sandals Society took the initiative in the 1919-1920 theatrical season at Stanford and The First Born was the first dramatic venture of the year. Incidentally their production also marked the return to serious drama in campus theatricals. It was an experiment as to whether or not a Stanford audience would accept such a diversion from the usual run of farce and musical comedy that held the local boards for the three preceding years. But as an experiment, it was a successful one. In fact, using this as a precedent, the English Club presented another serious drama later on in the season. To the coach and cast all the credit for the Sword and Sandals success must be given.

It may be said that the play, The First Born, itself was not "classic," as the management claimed. Although admirably fitted for an amateur production, it could hardly be adapted to a twentieth century college audience. Despite several powerful moments in the action, it remained essentially a cheap melodrama, set to an Oriental accompaniment.

But passing over these alleged deficiencies of plot, the work of some of the members of the cast must not escape consideration. The leading parts, taken by James Quinby, '18, and Miss Teresa Hihn, '19, were handled remarkably well and with unusual ease. Quinby rose to the tense dramatic situations that his lines demanded with an irresistible force, softened only by an underlying tenderness. Miss Hihn carried off her semi-tragic role with a sense of deep pathos, that was not oppressively emotional, but was measured by her unusual power of suppression.

Stoddard Atwood, '22, in the minor role of the pipe-mender, through the sonorous tones of his voice and the fullness of his expression, showed a realization of dramatic values that very few have reached on the local stage.

Sword and Sandals Society did not stop at producing The First Born, but furnished an additional attraction to the campus audience by presenting In 1999, as a curtain-raiser. The play was a clever burlesque on the conventional "triangle" play. The acting fell exactly in with the nonsense spirit that permeated the piece. L. W. McDermott, '17, as Rollo, played opposite Miss Margaret Shedd, '20, who was the "hen-pecked" wife. The co-respondent in question was played by Miss Mary Largent, '20.

The Football Show

A REMARKABLE variety of Stanford talent was given an opportunity to give itself an airing in the Football Show that was presented by Ram's Head Society on the night following the Big Game with California. Snappy vaudeville with a wide assortment of acts marked the Ram's Head production and put it far above the common level of "local talent" performances.

Out of a galaxy of greater and lesser stars on the bill first mention must be given to the team of J. T. Reynolds, '18, C. S. Kegley, '18, and R. G. Whealton, '19, because of the cleverness and originality of their act. The title of this act was Whatever They Happen to Think Of, and from the enthusiastic way that the Football Show audience accepted it, the team must have thought of the right things for the occasion. The double piano feature that Reynolds and Kegley furnished was a feat of musical acrobatics that could have earned them a place on any professional program. With his clear tenor voice, Whealton gave a very able interpretation of the new songs in his repertoire.

But as a singer of popular songs, which were the principal motif of the show, W. J. Schindler easily took the first honors. Schindler did the male heavy work in the Frivolous Follies Revue and did it remarkably well. He appeared in this act with Miss Elizabeth Patton, '21, who charmed the audience with her lively personality. The act itself was a sort of college-bred cabaret entertainment, featuring current sentimental songs, as "My Gal" and "A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody."

Perhaps the longest and loudest applause of the evening was earned by Miss Dorothy Johnston in her interpretative dance of Patches. Its success lay in the gayety and spirit that permeated it.

Other numbers on the program included J. M. Cuddy, '21, a rope-skipper of merit, and L. L. Pickering, '20, whose monologues were the fun hits of the show. A refined jazz program was put on by G. W. Corby, '22; D. V. Hutton, '23; Sterling Clark, '21, and C. S. Kegley, '18. R. W. Sewall, '20, accompanied Miss Patton in the Peppery Patter act with some original songs.

"Never Say Die"

THE audience of the 1922 Sophomore Play, Never Say Die, was indebted to Willie Collier, the author of the comedy, to the extent of two and one-half hours of solid fun. Brilliant dialogue, combined with a complication of ingenious situations, left the play without a dull moment.

It was a very creditable array of dramatic talent that the Sophomores got together to produce this fun show, a cast of more than usual brilliance in the run of class productions. The comedy characters, with which the play abounded, found very able interpreters, and the "straight" parts were almost equally well taken. The action, and the Collier comedy had lots of it, ran off with almost a professional smoothness, a tribute to the coaching of Gordon Davis.

It was Lester Seib's naturalness, his matchless gift of being absolutely at home on the stage, that earned him the star position in Never Say Die. Seib showed a superior sense of comedy values and gave them a far subtler treatment than did most of the cast.

The farcical situation that Dionysius Woodbury, the part that Seib played, faced was an ingenious one. Woodbury had been promised by the medical profession that he would die within two weeks. To pass on his fortune to his best friend, he marries said friend's fiancée. Complications set in when the hero's health commences to mend and his best friend loses both his girl and the expected legacy. The plot was a new one in the field of farces, and one that was rich in its comic possibilities.

Playing opposite Seib, as Violet Stevenson, Miss Eleanor Anderson was a perfect ingenue. Her acting had an indefinable delicate quality that won the hearts of the audience, and an individual grace that marked her personally. Some affectedness and a few unfortunate mannerisms were the only things that marred her otherwise graceful work.

AS THE CURTAIN FELL

Miss Sarahbelle Arnott earned the highest praise of all the female characters. In contrast to many of the cast, her acting displayed a genuineness of feeling and perfect sincerity, that proved her mastery of the matronly part of Mrs. Stevenson.

J. E. Lambie sustained the part of Griggs, the valet, with remarkable success, proving to be a comedian of the first water. His work in the man-servant role was far above the usual portrayal of the stage valet. The two doctors, played by Warren F. Lewis and S. W. Harrison, were very funny, and Harrison especially carried his part with unusual merit.

Melba Berry, as La Cigale, the dancer, gave a very spirited interpretation of what was perhaps the most difficult of the female parts.

The dash and vivacity of her manner marked her as a really capable character actress.

R. E. Blood, as Hector, the much abused friend of the hero, had a clear conception of his part, and Hal Bumbaugh, as Verchesi the Chef, was very amusing in his minor role.

Taking everything into consideration, the play set a mark that was bound to make it rank well with the season's productions.

The financial success of Never Say Die was due to the ingenious advertising and business ability of A. W. Cupid, upon whose shoulders the second year class placed the responsibility for the solvency of the venture.

A CLASH OF WILLS IN
"Rutherford and Son"

"Rutherford and Son"

RUTHERFORD AND SON," presented by the English Club, furnishes a plot which is quite unusual in college dramatics. With qualifications, it can be said that the acting was better than the play. The combined effect, however, will long be remembered as one of the best and most ambitious attempts at serious production which the campus has seen.

Without any question, the play was featured by the splendid acting of James Quinby, '18, and Ruth Elsinger, '20. Miss Elsinger was undoubtedly the star of the performance, and those who went to see Rutherford stayed to see Janet. Her voice had a very unexpected amount of dramatic power, combined with a sincerity and ability to give atmosphere, all of which scored in a very telling way. Her portrayal left little to be suggested in the way of improvement, beyond a slight exaggeration of mannerism in the first act, and in the crucial scene with Rutherford at the end of the second, a lack of restraint which so admirably characterized the rest of her work. In their great final scene in the third act, both Miss Elsinger and Quinby achieved a height of dramatic power and excellence which is seldom reached by amateurs.

In the role of Martin, Quinby showed his complete ability to identify himself with the character which he is representing. Throughout, his portrayal of an emotional and inarticulate character was uniformly complete and successful. His final scene, however, is worthy of special praise. The scene itself offers unusual opportunities; Martin, turned away by Rutherford, is so under the spell of his years of service that he is powerless to think of any future, and deaf to the last great appeal of Janet. In this scene, Quinby ideally played the part, and left nothing to be desired.

As Rutherford, A. W. Wendt, '20, did sustained and intelligent work, with more than usual insight into the part. If he did not entirely come up to a full conception of the role, it was because of a lack of weight and repose, rather than anything which he could have easily remedied.

As John, Kenneth Fussle, '22, showed unusual ease and facility. Unfortunately, however, he gave the subtle impression of having more of the less desirable characteristics of professional acting than of the more admirable of amateur work.

In a part which required no great amount of dramatic power, Miss Josephine Terrill, '21, was entirely pleasing. At the same time, she showed admirable understanding by keeping the part in proper subordination to the more important characters, without attempting to draw undue attention, as is too often the case with a secondary character which remains on the stage for a considerable time.

As the aunt, Fern Weaver, '21, played a consistent part. It was felt, however, that the same note was repeated a little too often, perhaps in the play as well as in the acting, and that in both a slightly more human touch would have relieved the almost exaggerated unpleasantness of the role.

The most livening touch of the play was the part of Mrs. Henderson, in which Miss Melba Berry, '22, showed her excellent and almost professional method. It is very seldom that a role which can so easily be burlesqued is played with such spirit and restraint.

As the young minister, Russel Johnson, '20, gave a pleasing and polished presentation, with some suggestion, however, of a slight exaggeration of the weakness of the character.

Rutherford and Son was staged under the direction of Gordon Davis, '18.

English Club is to be congratulated upon the successful attempt at staging not only such a serious production but one for which it first appeared difficult to get properly qualified stars to lead. However, the material chosen quickly, admirably, and proficiently mastered their parts.

A. BINNS, '22.

Janet (RUTH ELSENGER, '20)

"Sin Sin"

Ram's Head Society's offering for the year was Sin Sin, a musical burlesque written by S. E. Briggs, '19, and M. L. Levy, '19. Produced according to the best of Ram's Head tradition, it scored a remarkable hit that earned it almost the ranking position of the season's shows. Sin Sin's success may be traced primarily to its adaptability to the temper and tastes of the campus audience.

The co-authors achieved this, in the main, by playing up local issues in their general satire on the "professional" reformer. For instance, clever hits at the payment of tuition were received by the audience with long and loud applause. Freshness, originality, and the absence of shop-worn lines featured the Briggs-Levy book. These two deserved no end of credit for their ability to keep up a steady succession of "sure fire" lines that gave the audience no respite from laughing.

The whole atmosphere of the show was one of nonsense, and all of the members of the cast and chorus entered into this spirit wholeheartedly. The result was a care-free, good-humored interpretation of the piece, which quickly brought the audience into sympathy with the extravaganza. The traditional Ram's Head staging, with female impersonators in the women's parts and chorus, added to the joy of this gem of nonsense.

Davenport Oystermoor, the "lounge lizard," as played by Frank Bennett, '19, was a perfect burlesque character. Besides getting out every ounce of fun that there was in his part, Bennett put over many of the song hits of the show with his clear, lyrical voice.

Although Davenport Oystermoor was the "straight" leading part in the show, the comedy leading roles were held by the team of M. D. Flowers, '17, and J. P. Schnier, '20. For sheer comic effect through physical contrast, this team of comedians of assorted sizes could not be easily beaten. Flowers, as Little Violet, had his two hundred pounds of stage presence, which made Schnier, as Wieland Gulp, a diminutive figure against his bulk. Both showed marked ability as burlesque comedians, despite a tendency to "slapstick," and their antics on the stage continually convulsed the audience.

Of the female impersonators, T. R. Carskaddon, '22, had the hardest part and he carried it off best. His insight into the dowager chaperon role, to which he was assigned, was perfect. Ned Prather, '23, and Hugh Boyd, '20, also handled their "female" parts well.

THE AVOIRDUPOIS ROMANCE IN Sin Sin

The cast of characters in the show might be divided into two groups, the reformers and the sinners (who are later reformed). The reformers have already been accounted for, but the leading sinner, played by Charles Arnn, '20, deserves as much mention. Arnn had the part of Three Star Hennessey, the star athlete at the sinful college of Hamford, where the action of Sin Sin took place. It was about the reform of this man and his fellow-sinners that the plot turned. Arnn bore Hennessey's sins both lightly and well.

"Why Don't the Pretty Girls Come to College" was the song hit of the evening in a musical score that was full of catchy tunes. The ten-piece orchestra, directed by J. T. Reynolds, '18, was the big contributing factor towards musical success.

R. W. KENNY, '21.

A Leap Year Leap

⁶⁶ A LEAP YEAR LEAP" was the title of the whirlwind operetta that was produced by the Junior Class on May 9. Cleverness and originality were the keynotes in the 1921 production and the show received praise all around as being the most polished Junior musical offering that has appeared on the local boards in recent years.

The book of the opera was the result of the collaboration of Gordon Davis, '18, Miss Mona Gardner, '20, and Miss Jean Frickelton, '20. It was a riot of fun with all manner of complications surrounding a missing necklace, a leading lady with a hypothetical fiancé, and a diminutive "vamp" with strong oriental leanings. The stage was continually alive with action on account of a wealth of clever lines and ingenious twists.

Undoubtedly the best thing in the opera was the musical score, which was the work of five or six talented campus composers, including Darl Mac Boyle, '20, C. W. Midgley, '23, Russel Sewall, '20, and Milton Roberts, '21. Their gay, light-hearted music completely captivated the Junior Opera audience.

Miss Loraine West, '21, and Frank Bennett, '19, were given the leading parts in the production and the singing of both earned them no end of credit. Delicacy of treatment marked Miss West's acting and a certain graceful quality of repression in her work made it thoroughly enjoyable.

However, the actress who really won the hearts of the audience was Miss Dorothy Johnston, '21, in the ingenue role. A sparkling personality, combined with natural ease, made her the most buoyant and entertaining figure in the production.

By far the most polished actor in the men's cast was L. W. McDermott, '17, who took the part of Tom, the raisonneur in the plot. McDermott's poise and appreciation of the comedy value in his part were refreshing.

WHEREIN TWO "LEAP YEAR LEAPS" ARE GIVEN FLYING STARTS

Miss Frances Merrill, '22, was the "vamp" and gave a roguish interpretation of her role that was decidedly winning.

The chorus work was at least up to the average and mechanically the show ran off with clockwork smoothness, a tribute to the directing of Lester Seib, '22, the coach. The scenic decorations and art work were done by Carroll Alexander, '21.

HEADQUARTERS OF THE STANFORD UNIT. IN FRANCE

Red Cross Office at Saint Nazaire The Leland Stanford Unit

THE Leland Stanford Unit, made up of fourteen Stanford women sent abroad for Red Cross work by alumni and friends of the University, reached France in July, 1918. At this time the Germans were still within cannon shot of Paris, and the drive to dislodge them was resulting in thousands of American wounded daily. The Unit, which had planned to begin its work in the occupied country, turned instead, therefore, to service with these wounded. Its members were scattered through the American hospitals and camps. For the first six months each one worked alone, in work too varied to make description of it possible in a brief account.

After the armistice, however, the Red Cross assigned the entire group to the embarkation camp at Saint Nazaire, to take charge of Red Cross work there and especially to do searching, that is, to hunt down information about men of whom the army authorities knew that they were missing. At the time of the armistice, the number of missing was a has for its purpose the closer co-ordination of women living

o. Its members endeavor, by means of the society, to bring students closer together through social activities. This is ed by holding frequent dances, teas and other social events quarter, all of which tend to bring the members intimately t with each other. The organization thus fosters acquaintdoes much to promote college friendships.

STANFORD QUAD

Mural hockey schedules for the season included games between the classes, the representative teams of each class being a process of elimination of candidates. A total number of six was played for the class championship, and the all-star team was selected as a result of these contests.

The final result of Intra-Mural athletics among the class teams was a victory for the Sophomores. The second-year representatives played a total of six games won after playing two games with the other classes, thus making a perfect score. This gave them the championship of the Intra-Mural contest, their nearest rival, the Seniors, having won three out of five games. The Juniors ranked next with a score of three games lost and one won. The Freshmen were defeated in all the five games they played.

The all-star team had the following personnel:

Center Forward	Esther Culver
Right Inside	Marion Echols
Left Inside	Myra Waterman
Right Wing	Imo Baughman
Left Wing	Ruth Whitaker
Center Half	Doris Hyer
Right Half	Elizabeth Spilman
Left Fullback	Esther Clark
Right Fullback	Dorothy Johnson
Left Fullback	Isabel Craig
Goal	Mildred Walter
Subs—Carey Bailard, Ida Jopson.

MOMENT IN A FAST HOCKEY GAME

Many fast games characterized the season and brought several stars into prominence as a result. Those hockey players who particularly distinguished themselves throughout the series were: Myra Waterman, '22; Imo Baughman, '20; Esther Clark, '21, and Dorothy Johnson, '20, all of whom participated in the intercollegiate tournament.

SEEN THROUGH A CAMPUS KEYHOLE

JOSSES AND ROASTS

JOSHES

Since you have managed to wade through this volume this far, it is the hope and prayer of the powers that be that you have had cause to grin with satisfaction on seeing a similarity of yourself tacked on the already perused pages the required number of times.

In the pages that follow you may be given an opportunity to view yourself as you really are and not as you have been painted by Society Snakes or the Fraternity Fabricators, aye, even the Scribblers of the Scandal Sheets.

We know you will not be complimented—neither do we care, but that is not the theory. Ever since that Bracing Bevo beverage supplanted our good friend Three Star Hennessy on the national coat-of-arms we have given ourselves body and soul over to dry wit, and this being one of the first opportunities that we have of expressing ourselves, use our ill-spent time to call your distracted attention to ranking evils on the campus from the President down to the Jap menace in Encina.

Of course, in the old days—as we are wont to be reminded by those who regularly flunked their half-year course before the war started—dry humor was an art that was participated in only by P. B. K.'s and those singular few who didn't know that Johnny Breen would cash a check on the Bank of Pally. Now that our means of giddiness has been taken by the neck and thrust away from us, we find our only relief in the fact that we can still be justified in giving the "berry" to several members of this institution's student body as well as to the "D" (we are led to believe that this is Roman for 500, but we didn't want to get ahead of you), the Count, the ex-dean, and the adobe shack of our poverty stricken prexy, aye the li'l red house on the hill, that mother used to sing about when we were just old enough to bite our way through a tablespoon of Mrs. Winslow's syrup.

If the ghost of those "old days" is to prevail let it be widely advertised that we are fostering a movement to have succeeding editors of this volume go to Cuba for at least three months before the fulfilling of his contract.

We suppose that in the pages to come we step with a heavy tread upon your most family-like corn, but rejoice in it, for we are giving you an unexpected chance to view your pretty new Oxfords. Eh?

(Signed) THE JOSH ED.

Profanity Fair

These gentle souls, true beauties of rare design, deserve to grace a corner all their own. Girls, we ask you, aren't they sweet? Of course, the fellows will think so, but a woman is the real judge. Honestly, is there any one of them to whom you could not be a sister?

The entrancing lead in "Bal Baskette," the new French farce at the Gymnasium. When not engaged in acting before the footlights or the camera, Miss Pelouze occupies her spare time in writing delightful "Belles lettres."

ALFREDA HOLT (Lower Right)

whose charming smile and statuesque limbs have endeared her to all lovers of the terpsichorean art. Next season she will appear with a new company in what promises to be a dazzling production.

Late lead in the Ballet Russe. Her dance of the sword and other mystic interpretative dances are famous, and her sudden retirement from the stage is a sad loss to the artistic world.

MADAMOISELLE MARTINI (Middle)

The Metropolitan Diva, whose rich voice has thrilled countless thousands. It is said that she has never studied under other than American Masters.

GABRIE CURTIS (Upper Right)

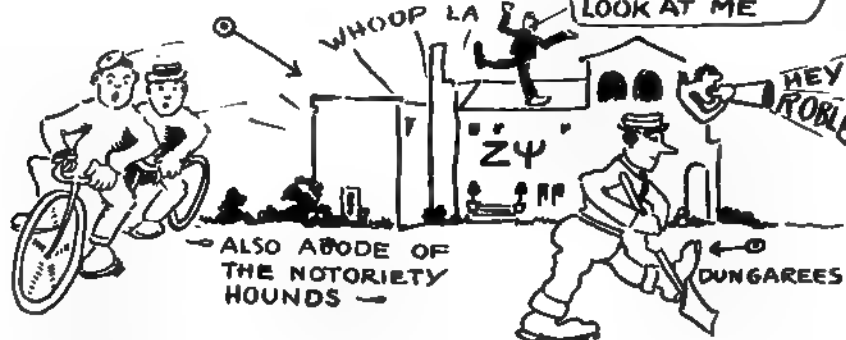

Another stellar celebrity who is soon to forsake the public and retire to married life. Her rendition of Roumanian folk-songs have made her a familiar figure on our stage.

DEAR JOSH EDITOR :

SO YOU THINK THE SORORITY GIRLS WILL FEEL SLIGHTED IF THEY DON'T GET A PAGE OF RAZZES IN THE QUAD? IT'S A SHAME TO WASTE THE SPACE, BUT HERE'S A FEW HUNCHES --- A LITTLE GOSSIP AND A FEW REMARKS ON THE SIDE.

THE KAPPA'S ARE STILL RIDING ON THE OLD REPUTATION BUT SHE IS COMMENCING TO RATTLE PRETTY BAD ON ACCOUNT OF ROUGH HANDLING BY THOSE COLLEGIATE BOARDING SCHOOL GIRLS. DO YOU REMEMBER THAT DANCE FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE FRENCH WAR ORPHANS? WELL! THE KAPPAS HAVE NEW CURTAINS NOW.

DID YOU HEAR ABOUT THE SWIMMING PARTY THE CHI O'S HAD OVER AT THE D.U. TANK? THE BOYS INVITED THEM OVER: ALSO SOME D.G.'S. THE CHI O'S GOT THERE FIRST, BUT WHEN THEY SAW THE D.G.'S COMING THEY JUMPED OUT AND WENT HOME. BUT IF YOU REALLY WANT TO GET IN TROUBLE ASK SOME OF THE GIRLS ABOUT THE COOK THEY HAD LAST YEAR.

THEY SAY THE ALPHA O'S HAVE A LOT OF ENGAGEMENT RINGS. SOME OF THE SISTERS EVEN HAVE TWO. IT WAS AT THE ALPHA O HOUSE THAT THE FAMOUS WOMAN IS REPUTED TO HAVE STARTED TO TURN. EITHER THERE, OR AT THE THETA HOUSE.

SPEAKING ABOUT THE THETA HOUSE AND FORMS, THEY HAVE A FLOCK OF CANARY BIRDS DOWN THERE, OR ONE, AT LEAST, WHO ATTEMPTS A WHISTLING CONVERSATION WITH A BETA GENT.

THE TRI DELS ARE STILL TRYING BUT THEY HAVE CHANGED THEIR MAJOR FROM SCHOLARSHIP TO LAKE SPORTS AND OTHER SPRING DIVERSIONS. IT IS RUMORED THAT THEY WERE PREVENTED FROM PENETRATING ANOTHER POLYANDRUS 'ORMAL THIS YEAR BY THE FLU EPIDEMIC.

OUR PI PHI GIRLS ARE GOING OUT STRONG FOR ABNORMAL PSYCH. AND ABNORMAL HAIRDRESSING. HAVE YOU SEEN THE HYDROCEPHALIC HEAD FORMS THEY BUY THEM (RATS) DOWN AT WOOLWORTHS FOR TEN CENTS PER YARD IF YOU WANT TO HEAR ALL THE VERSES OF THEIR FAMOUS SONG, WALK BY THERE SOME EVENING AFTER DINNER.

THE GAMMA PHI'S OPENED UP THEIR SELECT DANCING ACADEMY WITH A GRAND FLOURISH THIS YEAR, PASSING OUT THE OLD PLEDGE PINS LIKE JOHNSON BUTTONS. SPEAKING ABOUT SPRINGTIME, SOME ONE OUGHT TO TELL THAT ENGAGED ??? COUPLE UP THERE TO STAY OFF THE FRONT PORCH. IT EMBARRASSES THE CIVILIAN SETTEE WARMERS BEYOND WORDS.

THE ALPHA PHI'S DIDN'T HAVE A FIRE THIS YEAR, BUT IT WASN'T AT ALL NECESSARY BECAUSE THEY HAVE THE QUEEN OF THE CARNIVAL AND EVERYTHING. AND SAY --- WE'LL NEVER TELL. -- BUT ON YOU MELBA!!!

AND THE D.G.'S LOST THEIR JACK. OH NO, NOT THEIR MONEY, BUT THE OTHER ONE. SPEAKING ABOUT CALLERS, THE D.G.'S HAVE A LITTLE SIDE PORCH JUST LARGE ENOUGH FOR TWO, AND THEY SAY THE GIRLS SHAKY DICE TO SEE WHO WILL GET THE LUCKY LOCATION.

THERE ISN'T MUCH TO SAY ABOUT THE SIGMA KAPPAS: THEY ARE SUCH NICE QUIET GIRLS. THEY SAY A ROUGH WENT OVER TO LOOK AT THE DANCE THEY HAD THIS YEAR AND SAID ROUGH WAS OVER COME BY THE SIGHT AND FELL AND BROKE A THERLIS. SOMEBODY SAID THEY WERE BOTHERED BY THE D.U.'S HOVERING AROUND BUT -- OH WELL!

THAT IS ABOUT ALL FOR THIS TIME.

YOURS VERY SINCERELY,

LOCAL H. S. GRADUATE HONORED AT STANFORD

—Feb. 11—

Word was received today that Edwin Simpson, 1917 graduate of Kern County High School, was elected president of the Junior class at Stanford University in the mid-year student body election held yesterday. Simpson is widely known in Bakersfield, having been very active in student activities during his high school career. He was a member of the State Championship football eleven produced by the local school in 1916 also being a star track man, and participated in the California championship debates at Berkeley in 1917, when he was also editor of the "Oracle," the high school annual publication.

At Stanford Simpson has been connected with the business staff of the "Quad," the Stanford year book, and has taken a prominent part in debating and college politics. He is a member of Encina club, residing at Encina hall, and is said to be in line for editorship of the "Quad." He is studying law.

Walter Cramps All-Star

Co-Ed Eleven Announced.
Team Said to Be Fastest in Years.

By WALTER KRAMP

"The material for the selection of an All-Star Co-Ed eleven for 1920 is strong in many respects. As I have formerly stated, no first-class female eleven should be entered in an All-Star campaign without at least twenty-four first-string players on the list, consequently the selection is of that number. Now to study the merits and demerits of the individuals on the aggregation.

"The positions of ends have been awarded to Noble, the reliable Chioeton player, and Buffum, who 'could vamp anything on her side of the line,' using the words of one of the famous coaches. Both of these women are aggressive stars in their positions.

"Jones and Flippen will fit the positions as tackles, both extremely good-looking and not overly intelligent; the latter point is said to be one of the qualifications of a good tackler. Searcy and Orcutt will be held in auxiliary for the tackle positions in case the Gamifithian and Alforora players are not able to stand the vicissitude of the season.

"Guard material is plentiful, and here we would place Flowers, the sturdy Theton, and as a running mate, Lowstetter, the Libraria team's best bet, and who has played throughout a successful season. Centers this year as a rule are scarce, but the selection of Beth McArthur, with her aggressive ability on the ball-floor as well as in the open field, makes her a veritable whirlwind of weight at the center position and bolsters up the line to a marked degree.

"Thus we have a heavy powerful charging line with a fast low-running back field, which could easily strike their opponents' soft spots.

"In the back field we have in Magee, the Deltacemedian, and Wood, the Pifithian, two of the sturdiest, most aggressive and yet most speedy backs in the country. Wood's line plunging, coupled with Magee's ability to pass and run from a kick formation, would at all times be a source of danger.

"At fullback we have Welch, the Pifithian star, undoubtedly the best kicker seen or heard of on any team during the past season. She also can be relied upon when yards are needed, due to her terrific and peculiar style of carrying the ball. As a writer said, 'Welch? Yes, she has something on the ball.' As you all know this aids a player to a high degree.

"The quarterback job is an even break. Harry Barnhart, though able to rattle the signals in excellent style and unceasingly, she lacks a little in weight—she also was troubled with being 'muscle bound' during the early part of the season last year, but since has gone well. Johnston, the Alpatza player, has the weight, pep, and cool courage necessary to fill the position, though at times she shows a tendency to loaf during a game. Her final tackling ability earns her the position.

"As to the offensive strength of the eleven we have that; yes, it is offensively strong and equally indemistable on the defense, though a new style of defense has been suggested to the writer.

"Referring to the substitutes, we can hardly pass them up without notice, as they would in most cases even add to the strength of the team.

"In the back field, Merrill, Johnson, and Woodhead sit on the sub bench waiting to be called to their positions at halfbacks. Frankinheimer of the Roblolian Rovers and Parks of the sturdy three Delt Players are able to add offensively to the aggregation.

"The line substitutes have speed and power, as Grosfield, Magee, Orcutt and Searcy have shown.

"Summarizing, we find this team one of few weaknesses, and under the proper coaching of one of Bradford's ability, should show possibilities—if not rank ability."

Good Clothes

Next to character, education, health and personality, good clothes help the young man amazingly along life's rough road—not just neatly kept garments but clothes that have character themselves—those that are made well and look well—clothing that bespeak quality—in short, just such clothes for which “THE HASTINGS” have been famous for over sixty years.

For Activities Like These wear a BRAXTON

For dress you want a belt that has style; for business, one that is comfortable; for play, one that allows of unhampered movement.

In the common run of belts you get at most only one of these services—when you wear a Braxton, the belt for men, you get all three.

Have your haberdasher show you a Braxton, and in a flash—quick—you'll see why.

You'll find Braxton's made up in seven superb leathers, with snaps for interchangeable buckles; you'll find a combination of color, cut and finish that will delight your eye and smarten up your appearance.

And you'll note that at the points where it encircles the hips, the Braxton is specially shaped—it's what makes the Braxton so easy to wear at the desk, on the courts, or while "stepping out". This feature likewise gives your trousers a hang that's exactly right.

Your favorite men's shop will have Braxtons. You can get yours today.

Sincere Service for Stanford Men

In all our dealings with the men of Stanford University we endeavor to be sincere, affable and courteous always, but above above all sincere! We feature Kuppenheimer Clothes because we sincerely believe them to be the best in correct style high grade tailoring, fabrics, and finish. Furthermore, they wear much longer, than others for the very reason mentioned above. We are also sincere when we say they are the most moderately priced of all high grade clothes for men.
